Germany Tells France She Cannot Continue Payments

MINISTERS AND EXPERTS AT MEETING

French Premier Gives Sympathetic Hearing to Plea of German Nation

SITUATION EXPLAINED

Belgian Delegation Presents Project Providing Credit Institution

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, June 24.—(UP)—Germany explained to France today why she cannot continue paying reparations, and received a sympathetic hearing.

Premier Edouard Herriot and Chancellor Franz Von Papen conducted the meeting, which was attended by more than 20 French and German ministers and experts.

Count Schwerin Von Krosigk, German finance minister, clearly implied Germany is unable to pay future reparations, even after expiration of the temporary moratorium now in effect, but the French refused to be pessimistic.

Herriot told newspaper men the conference developed "a good atmosphere and a good tone." It was mostly devoted to a lengthy exposition of Germany's financial and economic condition by Von Krosigk.

The Belgian delegation announced it had presented to Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain a project providing for reorganization of Germany public utilities to help assure the monetary stability of the Reich. It provides also for organization of a credit institution, probably under the World Bank of Basle, destined to aid central and eastern Europe. A reform of tariff systems would be attempted.

WOMEN CATHOLICS AT MASS MEETING

DUBLIN, June 24.—(UP) — A mass meeting of women in Phoenix park addressed by the Papal Legate, Cardinal Lauri, was the principal event on today's program for the million pilgrims attending the Eucharistic Congress.

The park was filled last night as Cardinal Lauri spoke in English on the subject of the blessed Eucharist. Archbishop John Joseph Glennon of St. Louis delivered the Sacrament of Charity and Peace.

Pontifical mass, meetings of priests and general and sectional meetings were held this morning. Pontifical mass for children will be celebrated tomorrow.

HOUSE MOVES TO PREVENT PRESIDENTIAL VETO

Gov. Rolph On Lookout For Two Husbands

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 24.—Governor Rolph today was on the lookout for two husbands.

Business in the matrimonial bureau of the governor's office picked up today when Ida Belle Wells of Santa Barbara put in an order for a new husband, and Mrs. Margaret Hoffman of Millvale, Pa., said she'd like to have the old one back.

Miss Wells wrote: "I don't want to make you appear a spouse hunter, but life seems so lonely after losing mother. I am about 45 or 50, fair, light hair, large blue eyes, 110 pounds."

JUDGE CHARGES TEMPLE AGENT SOUGHT MONEY

Says Angelus Temple Attache Offered Support for Contribution

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(UP)—Agents of Angelus Temple, of which Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton is evangelist, were directly charged with "approaching the judiciary" with demands for cash in return for political support, in a speech by Superior Judge Frank C. Collier last night before the Los Angeles Bar Association.

The fiery jurist named Ray A. Watkins, Temple attache, as one of the men who had approached members of the bench seeking contributions for the Temple commissary fund.

Watkins has been acting as a private investigator for David L. Hutton jr., in the latter's present heart-balm suit. Hutton's father is business manager of the Temple.

Judge Collier declared that Municipal Judge Thomas Ambrose had been accosted by A. J. Sherer, an agent for the Temple, with an appeal for cash contributions to the Temple's unemployed relief fund.

In return, Sherer promised the use of the Temple radio and frequent mention of Judge Ambrose's candidacy for reelection, Judge Collier charged.

In company with Judge Ambrose, Judge Collier said he visited the Angelus Temple commissary and there the proposition was repeated by two men he identified as Bowers and Fisher.

The jurist quoted Bowers, who claimed to be Watkins' assistant, as saying:

"Watkins is a politician from A to Z and he does the picking of those whose contributions will bring about the use of Angelus Temple radio. We have 150,000 followers and they will hear your name mentioned, and we will let you use the radio too."

"I would not like to refer to the experience I had with Angelus Temple workers as a racket exactly, but it seems to me to border on unethical practices," declared Judge Collier.

Mrs. McPherson-Hutton, who is ill and is in a sanitarium, was recently quoted as saying that she was unaware of present Temple activities, or "what was going on behind my back."

"Many persons claim to represent the Temple who have nothing to do with it," she was said to have declared.

THROWN FROM BOAT, YOUTH IS DROWNED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 24.—(UP)—William F. McEnerney, 22, of Sacramento, was drowned in Sacramento river late yesterday when he was thrown from a speeding outboard motorboat in which he was riding.

Unable to swim, McEnerney went to his death because he failed to reach an oar thrown to him by Noel Wilson, a companion, and a rope in the boat proved to be too short.

The body had not been recovered last night, and further attempts were to be made by searching officers today.

SUIT BROUGHT AGAINST 146 BY HARRY LAKE

Alleged Members of Orange County Fair Association Defendants

TANGLED AFFAIRS of the Orange County Fair association are due for another airing with the filing in justice court late this morning of a suit demanding $87.71, each, from 145 alleged members of the association.

The action was filed by Attorney D. G. Wettlin on behalf of H. A. Lake, Garden Grove lumber man who for some time carried the major part of the financial burden of the fair association.

The total amount involved in the joint action is $41,311.50 and represents money due Lake and assigned claims for material and labor supplied the fair association over a period extending from 1928 until 1932.

The largest item on the list is $13,375, said to have been advanced to the fair association in January, 1932.

According to Wettlin the amount asked from each of the 145 defendants was based on a proration of the money due among the 399 members of the association. Approximately two-thirds of the membership already have paid their share of the debt and the suit filed this morning was for collection of the amount outstanding against the remaining one-third.

L. A. OIL OPERATORS TO CURTAIL OUTPUT

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(UP)—Oil producers of the Los Angeles basin worked feverishly today to curtail production so they might be in a position to accept an offer of the Standard Oil company to pay $1 per barrel for crude oil.

K. R. Kingsbury, president of Standard, notified producers here he would extend until tomorrow his company's offer to increase the price of oil 25 cents.

The continuance had been asked for by W. M. Keck, chairman of a producers' committee, when it was found both the Long Beach and the Huntington Beach fields were in excess of their allowable quotas.

Standard's offer to purchase $1 per barrel crude is contingent upon the reduction of all oil fields in the state to within their allowable quota limits.

FATHER KILLS SELF AND 2 YOUNG SONS

SAN JOSE, June 24.—(UP)—Desperate after a year of unemployment, Walter Wright, 40, shot and killed his two sons and committed suicide under the Keyes street bridge here today. The bodies were found by two young boys at play.

Wright used a .22 caliber rifle, first shooting his youngest son, Arthur, 8. The position of the other boy, Walter, 9, indicated that he was running, trying to escape, when his father shot him from behind.

The mother of the boys, who remarried after she had obtained a divorce from Wright, had not been located today.

ASSASSINATION OF GEN. MA REPORTED

LONDON, June 24.—(UP)—Reports of the assassination of Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, Chinese militarist who both opposed and aided the Japanese in Manchuria, were published by the Japanese press at Harbin today, according to exchange telegraph dispatches.

The reports said Ma was killed when his place of residence was blown to pieces.

M'Bride Gives Definition Of Party Plank

DETROIT, June 24.—(UP)—Party planks, said Dr. F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, so far as prohibition is concerned, are like the steps of a railroad coach.

"They are used to get in by, but not to stand on."

McBride, enroute to the Democratic convention, stopped over for the Michigan Anti-Saloon league trustees meeting.

REVOLT BREAKS OUT IN RANKS OF BONUS ARMY

Band of 500 Insurgents in Washington March on Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(UP)—An insurgent band of 500 veterans revolted against their leaders today and marched on the capitol in an attempt to convert senators to the Patman bonus bill.

Thirty-five metropolitan police hurried to the capitol to reinforce the regular force.

W. W. Waters, commander of the bonus expeditionary forces, left Anacostia for the capitol in an attempt to prevent possible disorder.

The senate already has defeated the Patman bill, calling for immediate payment of $2,400,000,000 in bonuses.

Edward Williams of Johnson City, Tenn., took command of the men after they arrived at the capitol. He said there would be no disorder, that his followers merely were there to lobby for bonus legislation.

Williams said he hoped to have 1500 men on Capitol Hill before evening.

DUCHESS FAILS TO PRESENT DANCER

LONDON, June 24.—(UP)—Failure of the Duchess of Devonshire to present her dancer daughter-in-law, Lady Charles Cavendish, the former Adele Astaire, at last night's court at Buckingham palace was explained today when it became known that the duchess was confined to bed by acute rheumatism.

Friends of Lady Cavendish, famous as a dancer in America and Europe before her marriage to Lord Cavendish last month, indignantly denied insinuations that the duchess had purposely abstained from presenting her daughter-in-law to the king and queen.

The duchess personally coached Lady Cavendish in court curtseys and deportment and helped select her costume for the presentation.

Lady Cavendish was presented by Mabell, Countess of Airlie, and was accompanied by Lady Balfour, niece of the Duchess of Devonshire.

WOULD CUT NUMBER OF STATE'S WARDS

SACRAMENTO, June 24.—(UP)—In an effort to cut down the rapidly mounting population of state wards, superintendents of 13 California state institutions today presented a program to Governor Rolph.

The relief program, it was recommended, will be directed by Dr. Herman Adler of the University of California and consulting psychiatrist of the state department of institutions, and Dr. Norman Fenton, director of the state bureau of juvenile research.

Work among the insane, feebleminded and juvenile delinquents will be correlated with field workers making direct contacts with subjects in their own homes in the hope of saving them from institutional care.

COURT REBUKES GIRL ACCUSER AND ATTORNEYS

Counsel for David Hutton and Myrtle St. Pierre Told to Speed Case

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(UP)—Myrtle St. Pierre, pretty 31-year-old nurse, and attorneys both for her and for David L. Hutton, husband of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton were rebuked severely by the court today for slowness of progress in the trial of her $200,000 breach of promise suit against Hutton.

Superior Judge Lester Roth unexpectedly excused the jury during the morning session and then lectured first Mrs. St. Pierre and then counsel.

"I want no more voluntary information from you," the judge said to Mrs. St. Pierre, undergoing her third day of cross examination on her story of asserted betrayal by Hutton under promise of marriage. "I realize you are under a great strain but you must listen to the orders of this court. I have repeatedly admonished you to refrain from volunteering information."

"If you do so again," he concluded as the nurse wept in her handkerchief, "I shall admonish you severely in the presence of the jury."

From the plaintiff, Judge Roth turned to the attorneys in the case.

"I want no more bickering or argument from you lawyers," he said. "If I need any enlightenment on any point of law, I'll ask for it. This trial is costing the taxpayers of Los Angeles lots of money. I want the action speeded up."

Judge Roth's attack from the bench was brought on by the monotonous cross questioning of Mrs. St. Pierre and voluntary expressions it brought from the witness and the legal arguments it developed. Jones has been cross examining Mrs. St. Pierre since early Wednesday morning.

He seemed to be making but scant progress in his attempt to break down her story that Hutton wooed and won her and then deserted her for Mrs. McPherson-Hutton.

The attorney returned briefly to matter of singing. Mrs. St. Pierre admitted that it was Hutton's bold baritone voice, singing "My Faith in You" that helped win her heart. Mrs. McPherson-Hutton admitted shortly after her marriage that the same thing helped swing her to Hutton.

"Did he sing that song to you more than once?" Jones asked.

"Oh, yes," she answered, "he used to sing it over and over to me when we were out riding. In the song he'd say his faith in me was "deeper than the deepest ocean and higher than the highest mountain."

WOMAN DISAPPEARS ON HER HONEYMOON

HONOLULU, June 24.—(UP)—Scores of sampans, expert swimmers and two airplanes renewed their search today for Mrs. Nora Gardner Lufkin, who disappeared Wednesday following a swim near Makena Maui.

The missing woman's pajamas and automobile were found on the beach. Her husband, Dr. C. Dexter Lufkin, expressed the belief she was seized with cramps while swimming and drowned. Natives feared she had been attacked by sharks.

Leaders To Hold Solons In Session

Progressives Organize to Insure Aid for Jobless Before Adjourning

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(UP)—The two billion dollar unemployment relief program switched back to the house today, with Progressives organizing to forestall any possibility of the measure being killed by presidential veto after adjournment of congress.

The $2,300,000,000 relief bill passed by the senate was to be formally received and rejected by the house. Speaker Garner then was ready to appoint conferees to adjust the senate bill with his own $2,291,000,000 relief program adopted by the house.

Possibility of a veto lies in the fact the bill in its final form is certain to include a federal bond issue for public works, a proposal which President Hoover has opposed. The senate bill provides a $500,000,000 bond issue and the Garner program a $1,191,000,000 issue.

If congress passed the bill in final form, cleaned up its other work and adjourned next week, Mr. Hoover conceivably might kill the relief program simply by a "pocket veto." Rep. LaGuardia, Repn., N. Y., insurgent leader, claimed, however, he had sufficient votes to prevent adjournment before the president acts on the bill. If Mr. Hoover disapproves the measure, congress then would be in position to override his veto.

Senate leaders hoped to obtain final approval of the $150,000,000 federal economy bill today, although two controversies developed. One of the disputed items provides that when dismissals are necessary, the first to be laid off shall be wives whose husbands also are employed by the government. Senator Reed, Repn., Pa., declared this would break up families.

As soon as the economy bill is acted upon, the senate is scheduled to take up the Hawes-Cutting bill under which the Philippine Islands would be granted independence in 19 years.

The Democratic unemployment relief program was adopted late yesterday by a vocal vote in which many Republicans joined. The bill provides:

$300,000,000 to be loaned to the states by the reconstruction corporation for direct relief of the destitute.

$1,500,000,000 expansion of the reconstruction corporation to create jobs on revenue-producing construction projects by states, cities and private corporations $40,000,000 set aside to finance exports of surplus crops.

$500,000,000 federal bond issue for construction of highways, river harbor and flood control projects, public buildings, and army and navy improvements already authorized by congress.

CALIFORNIA BONUS ARMY RESUMES TRIP

DALLAS, Tex., June 24.—(UP)—The California bonus army straggled eastward across Texas today with the advance guard several hundred miles ahead of the last ragged marcher.

The leaders had passed here but several hundred which left El Paso by automobile and freight train expected to be no farther east than Fort Worth tonight.

It's Easy To Find Needle Scientifically

CHICAGO, June 24.—(UP)—For a scientist a scientific needle is a simple thing to find even if it is lost in a haystack, or as the case may be, an ash heap.

Three radium needles were lost by the county hospital when they were thrown away with soiled dressings. Seachers using an electroscope traced the needles to the mountainous incinerator ash heap.

In a few hours of sifting, the needles, each worth $75, had been recovered.

LAS VEGAS TO BE CLEANED UP OF RUM JOINTS

Every Speakeasy in Desert Town Padlocked; Police Declare Open War

LAS VEGAS, Nev., June 24.—(UP) — Law enforcement agencies in Las Vegas joined forces today to close every speakeasy in the desert town and issued orders that all forms of vice must be "whipped into line."

The action followed the bombing Wednesday night of the Big Four club, a liquor establishment which tried to operate outside the area designated by police.

The bombing was believed to be the first sign of violence in an undercurrent battle between two gangs for control of the Las Vegas liquor traffic.

Sheriff Keate and Chief of Police Williams jointly issued the order which padlocked every known speakeasy in town.

District Attorney Harley A. Harmon conferred with the sheriff and police department heads and issued a statement which declared that it was the intention "to keep this city clean and teach lawless they will have to obey officers if they expect to remain here."

The sheriff and the police chief, working together for the first time in recent Las Vegas history, declared that bandits, thieves, prostitutes and "hangers on" were to be "whipped into line."

Las Vegas has long been known as an oasis on the desert between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City. A few miles from the desert town thousands of men are at work on the Hoover dam project on the Colorado river.

HOPES GOAT SERUM MAY BE SALVATION

BERKELEY, June 24.—(UP)—Possibility that injection of a goat serum may cause a Berkeley youth to recover from a severe form of blood poisoning has led scientists to hope that septicemia may be eliminated from the ranks of incurable diseases.

The serum, developed by immunizing a goat from the bacteria through a secret process, is being administered to Fred Daugherty, 25, who was stricken with blood poisoning several weeks ago. Although physicians in attendance said it would be several days before they could determine if the experiment would be successful, the youth's mother, Mrs. A. F. Daugherty, declared her son had shown marked improvement.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NAME NEW OFFICERS

MERCED, Calif., June 24.—(UP)—Delegates to the grand parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West today were sightseeing in Yosemite park after concluding business of the annual convention held here.

Installation of newly elected officers was the final business of the meeting.

TWO-THIRDS FIGHT WILL BE STRESSED

Large Block of New York's Votes Will Ultimately Go to Baker, Reported

STIFF BATTLE AHEAD

M'Adoo, Smith and Garner Forces All Opposed to Change in Ancient Rule

CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS, CHICAGO, June 24.—(UP)—Tammany has decided to throw Franklin D. Roosevelt overboard, according to apparently reliable information today.

The last hope that the "Wigwam's sizeable block of around 35 votes would support Roosevelt appeared to go glimmeding when J. F. Curry, Tammany leader, announced he would fight abolition of the two-thirds rule to the "last political ditch." Roosevelt's forces want it abolished, so they can nominate Roosevelt with a majority.

Associates of Curry also indicated that the Tammany bloc ultimately would go to Newton D. Baker, but before that probably would be in Governor Albert C. Ritchie's column for a time.

This was the big positive development today as Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith forces were openly arrayed in battle. Smith's manager, Frank A. Hague, of Jersey City, had labelled Roosevelt Democracy's weakest candidate—a man unable to win election if nominated. Roosevelt-ians reported with an announcement they would fight to beat the two-thirds rule—with its potential threat of defeat for Roosevelt.

Rumors flew that the Smith group might walk out of the convention. Smith refused to comment.

To Speak Later

"I'll say nothing until 5 o'clock tonight," he said.

The attitude of one of Smith's friends was that if the convention changed the rules on him he would be justified in refusing to remain in the game.

It is known that the chance of unfair tactics and of attempting to change the rules after play has begun will be used by the anti-Roosevelt group in their fight.

Backers of Speaker Garner of Texas meantime assailed the Roosevelt move against the century-old two-thirds rule, declaring it represented an admission of defeat.

Roosevelt forces met this situation with the aggressive announcement that they would strike out to break the two-thirds rule on the first ballot. Some of the more timid wished to let the two-thirds rule hold for a few ballots and then try to break it.

"We're going to do it on the first ballot," James A. Farley, the hard-hitting Roosevelt manager declared.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, June 24. (To the Editor of The Register:) Mr. Hoover issued a splendid disarmament program but he was unfortunate enough to issue it on the same day the "square deal" boxing commission disarmed Max Schmeling. So naturally nobody paid much attention to Mr. Hoover's plan. It was the New York plan that attracted all the attention. Poor Sharkey, nobody feels that he was in any way responsible for it. And of course, Max has gained by it. Make it clear to foreigners, that in the Olympic Games, no boxing commission has anything to do with 'em. And ask the radio announcers, if the next fight is not so "hot," to tell us so. Sounded like Dempsey and Fitzsimmons were battling it out at the height of their careers.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

ORDER SUSPECT IN BEACH CASE OUT OF COUNTY

Charles Baker, 48, questioned this week by Seal Beach police and deputy sheriffs in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Helen Shelton, with whom Baker was said to have been living, was given a suspended sentence of 90 days in jail when he appeared before City Judge Fred Smith in the beach city this morning. The suspension is contingent on Baker leaving the county forever.

Chief of Police J. R. Zoeter is investigating a report that Mrs. Shelton was seen by Seal Beach residents on a Long Beach street a short time ago.

Mrs. Shelton disappeared April 15, but her absence did not come to the attention of authorities until Baker applied to the county welfare department for aid. Following an investigation, Mrs. Shelton's two young children were sent to the home of her sister in Kingfisher, Okla.

Following questioning of Baker, his 18-year-old daughter and 14-year-old son, Baker was arrested on a charge of vagrancy and brought into court today.

Mrs. Shelton left all her personal effects, including two Bibles, when she disappeared. Officers were further puzzled by her disappearance because she was known to be extremely fond of her two children and often went to the school at recess time to watch them at play.

Bourbons Elect Davis Head Of County Club

Permanent officers were elected at a recent meeting of the Orange County Democratic Club. James L. Davis, attorney, was named president; J. Ogden Markel, vice-president; H. M. Secrest, secretary, and Curtis Burrow, treasurer.

This meeting was open to the public and featured an address by Zach Lamar Cobb, former U. S. Collector of Customs at El Paso under Woodrow Wilson and prominent in Southern California Democratic circles. Cobb discussed the political situation in general. He is well known as a speaker in Orange county, having addressed several mass meetings in various parts of the county during the recent campaign conducted here on behalf of the candidacy of John N. Garner for the Bourbon presidential nomination.

2,200 Expected At Oldtimers Picnic

A record-breaking crowd is expected for the annual Oldtimers' picnic to be held next Sunday at Irvine park. It is estimated that more than 2200 persons will attend. In fact, the advance reservations have been so heavy that grounds next to the park pavilion have been reserved instead of those near the tennis courts used in previous years, solely to provide more accommodations.

BROWNS' SPURT MAY KEEP CLUB IN CITY

NEW YORK, June 24.—(UP)—The St. Louis Browns, threatened with removal to Milwaukee because of poor patronage by home fans, have made an impressive appeal for support by repulsing four Eastern teams with 11 victories to the visitors' six.

Bill Killefer's men concluded their home-stand yesterday in a blaze of glory by slapping another defeat onto the powerful New York Yankees, 14 to 10.

The Browns won two out of five against the Philadelphia Athletics, three out of four from Washington, four out of four from the dilapidated Boston Red Sox, and two out of four from the Yanks.

If the Browns can continue their brand of baseball of the past couple of weeks, observers believe they might finish well up in first division, gain the support of St. Louis fans, and change President Phil Ball's mind about shifting the team to Milwaukee.

SAYS TAMMANY WILL DESERT GOV. ROOSEVELT

"We went on record last night and we're going to follow through."

"Are you afraid of any cry of a tainted nomination if you get it under the abolition of this rule?" Farley was asked.

"No," he answered. "The delegates have been chosen by the people and they are entitled to make their own rules."

Admits Failure

Attempt of the Roosevelt forces to abolish the two-thirds rule was hailed as an admission of "failure" by Representative Sam Rayburn of Texas, campaign manager for Speaker John N. Garner in an attack on James A. Farley, Roosevelt manager for advocating it.

William Gibbs McAdoo, sponsor of the Garner candidacy, likewise reiterated today his steadfast opposition to dispensing with the two-thirds rule at the present convention, saying it is not right to change "in the middle of the game." The California delegation is on record for a change in 1936.

Bruce Kremer, Montana, Roosevelt leader who will be chairman of the rules committee which will recommend a majority rule to the convention, met the protests today with the assertion there is "not a doubt in the world" that the Roosevelt forces would carry the day.

Kremer said the rules committee would propose adoption of the rules of the 1928 convention, and of the 72nd Congress so far as the latter may be applicable with the proviso that "nomination of candidates for President and Vice President shall be by a majority of delegate votes."

The two-thirds fight, Kremer said, would reach the convention floor after election of a permanent chairman. He said the convention had no right to change the unit rule binding some delegations to vote as a unit, but that he thought that would be changed by the states before the next convention.

It was reported the anti-Roosevelt forces had devised a new strategy designed to retard a rush for the Roosevelt band wagon. This program was said to be to nominate Senators Harrison, Mississippi; Robinson, Arkansas, and Pittman, Nevada, thereby presumably holding the uninstructed state delegations of these men from stampeding to Roosevelt.

Reports that Smith might bolt were met at his headquarters with the statement that Smith was out to get the nomination for himself and nothing else was being considered.

Nine men were named today by Chairman Gilbert M. Hitchcock of the Democratic resolutions committee to draft a tentative party platform. The committee was appointed on motion of the "stop Roosevelt group" but without objection from supporters of the New York governor.

Hitchcock is also chairman of the sub-committee. He named the following as its members:

William G. McAdoo, California; Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana; Senator Cordell Hull, Tennessee; A. Mitchell Palmer, District of Columbia; Senator Carter Glass, Virginia; Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Wyoming; William A. Comstock, Michigan, and Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

You have become so accustomed to thinking of what you can see as real and of what you cannot see as imaginary that you are likely to miss the greatest truths of life.

As a matter of fact the greatest forces in the world are those which are invisible.

Translate this truth into the language of your most intimate experience and you will recognize the certainty that your dear one in Paradise inspires and moulds your life even more potently now than when she shared your daily tasks here on earth.

And on beyond, you two will see each other face to face.

PROBATION DENIED IN SLANDER SUIT

J. A. Gore, Balboa, boatman, convicted of criminal slander several weeks ago by a jury in department one of the superior court, was denied probation this morning and sentenced to 60 days in the county jail by Superior Judge H. G. Ames. Gore was ordered to serve five days of the sentence in jail and the other 55 were suspended.

Gore was convicted on charges that grew out of his statement at a political meeting in Newport Beach when he declared "our chief is a bootlegger and in league with the bootleggers." Following his conviction A. P. Nelson, his attorney made a motion for a new trial which was denied on the grounds that the asserted new evidence was not sufficient to justify a reopening of the case.

SAVALA AND RUIZ SEEK PROBATION

Florentino Savala was arraigned in superior court this morning and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary and asked for probation. A similar plea was entered by Alexander Ruiz to a charge of receiving stolen property. Superior Judge James L. Allen set their probation hearings for next Friday morning.

Savala is accused of having robbed the store of George Joseph at Atwood and secured a quantity of clothing and personal property valued at approximately $500. The robbery occurred on May 30, last, and according to the complaint against Ruiz was purchased by him the same day. Ruiz is accused of knowing that the property he purchased had been stolen by Savala.

W. M. Burke, attorney for Savala and Ruiz, said there were many facts in connection with the charges against his clients that would throw a new light on the case. These facts, he said, would be brought out at the hearing on the petitions for probation.

The office will be equipped to write all lines of insurance which have been carefully selected for their soundness, he announces.

Wahlberg comes here from Long Beach, where he resigned the position as assistant secretary of the Nevada Fire Insurance company for Southern California. During his twenty years of experience on the coast, he has been connected with some of the country's largest insurance companies.

KING TO SEEK ASSEMBLY SEAT, DEFINES VIEWS

LOYAL K. KING
Newspaper Business Executive Who Announces Candidacy For the State Assembly as Representative of the 74th District.

Loyal K. King, business manager of the Santa Ana Register, filed his nomination papers for the office of assemblyman from the 74th district late today.

King has been business manager of the Santa Ana Register since the paper changed hands in 1927. Prior to his coming to Southern California, he was general manager of the Daily Telegraph-Forum of Bucyrus, Ohio, and previous to that he was an accountant and auditor of corporation records.

He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, served 28 months in the army and in the air service during the world war, 17 months of which were spent in France. He was commissioned a Lieutenant in the Field Artillery at Saumur, France, Aug. 1, 1917.

The platform on which he will make his campaign follows:

1. State taxes must be reduced in proportion to the lower incomes of the people of this state. The total amount of money spent for salaries and other expenses must be cut either by a wage reduction or through the consolidation of bureaus, offices, and commissions, and where advisable by both cuts in salary and consolidation. Every item of expense must be cut, regardless of political consequences.

2. I am opposed to the shifting of school cost from county to state because it does not relieve the people of this state from any item of expense; on the other hand, it will result in the creation of new positions to take care of the extra work. The theory upon which it is being attempted is that the state can better take care of the spending of the tax money than the people residing in the respective school districts. In my candid opinion, the people of any school district are well able to spend the money they have earned and paid as taxes. If the spending of money is to be voted to state officials far from strict local control, the people will lose what little control they still have concerning the spending of school money.

3. I am opposed to the creation of a new civil service commission, the head of which is removable at the wishes of the governor. Such a monstrosity can only result in the head of the commission selecting the governor's favorites; or losing his job. Good judgment will not be served by affording the opportunity to build a political machine of small office-holders.

4. At the present time people are losing not only their homes and their ranches, but they are driven into bankruptcy and dishonor through the exercise of deficiency judgments. It is my contention that the buyer and seller have a continuing financial responsibility towards each other until all debts between them are paid, and that in the case of real estate when values fluctuate owing to reasons beyond the power of either party, the maximum that the seller should be allowed to recover is the property he sold. A fair bargain presupposed that a fair price has been paid, and when a mortgage providing for the recovery of the property sold does not satisfy the amount of the mortgage, the seller has either exaggerated its value, in which case no fair bargain was ever made or arrived at, or conditions beyond the control of either have so altered its value that the seller must be satisfied with the complete recovery of his property.

5. I favor a law that will in the future prevent the holder of a mortgage from taking a deficiency judgment against the persons whose property he has repossessed, through the exercise of his rights under a mortgage or trust deed, when that deficiency is made up in part or in total because the property failed to sell for the amount of the mortgage.

6. Bids for printing, as well as for the purchase of all other supplies by subdivisions of the state shall be secured at least once a year. At the present time this county is buying printing under contracts made in 1924. Whether office-holders favor or disapprove an individual, they should nevertheless be compelled to buy where they can get the most for the taxpayers' money. That proposition is fundamental to good government. The philosophy of our own Orange county purchasing agent, that it is hard not to buy from friends who have helped you into office, should be superseded by the philosophy that public funds are a public trust; that office-holders are trustees of this money in fact as well as in theory, and that they shall be compelled to buy where they can get the most for their money, whether it is printing, tires or supplies.

7. The question of "wet" and "dry" is a moral question. But since morals, good and bad, are defined by law, it is also inevitably a political question, and no candidate for a legislative position which has as its functions the defining of the standard below which you shall not fall on the penalty of a fine or going to jail, can escape the responsibility of taking a position on the matter. Legislative candidates are either in favor of more liquor or less liquor, and according to public definition, either "wet" or "dry."

I believe that prohibition represents an ideal worthy if the aspirations of the people of this state and nation, and I align myself with those people and those farces who are constantly striving to make prohibition more effective.

8. I would compel, by statute, that the county supervisors return to the political subdivisions of the county the gas tax money that has been contributed by each subdivision.

The cities of Santa Ana, Orange, Tustin, San Clemente, Newport Beach and Laguna Beach contributed 40 per cent of the entire gas tax paid by the county. Since June, 1929, $488,119.53 of gas taxes paid by these incorporated areas has been received back by the county treasurer. The amount contributed by these same cities last year was $155,104.68, but these received back from the county only $15,820 to help them with the cost of their streets; in fact only $15,820 out of a total of $119,155 appropriated out of the gas tax fund to help road improvement districts was spent in the three supervisorial districts which comprise this assembly district—all of the balance was spent in the other two supervisorial districts of the county. For the sake of politics, the money contributed in this area was spent elsewhere to help friends. It is about time that such a condition be remedied by statute, and I propose to see that it is done.

9. I am opposed to the voting of additional state funds for the spreading of water in the upper Santa Ana basin; until such time as the maximum of flood water shall have spread in the lower Santa Ana canyon. At the present time the Santa Ana river is confined to a very narrow channel. As a result, it takes but very little water to reach the Chapman avenue bridge. By permitting and encouraging the spreading of flood water in the upper Santa Ana basin, other people are establishing rights and getting possession of water that should flow into this county, it is lost to our people. ple of Orange county to spread as much water as possible in the lower Santa Ana canyon, because this is the water that will replenish our underground basin. Water is absorbed into the underground basin in direct proportion to the surface area covered with water. By increasing the width of the Santa Ana river channel either by small check wires, or channels or by any other method, the amount of water absorbed into this basin can be greatly increased. But by permitting its diversion long before the water ever arrives in this county, t is lost to our people. Whatever funds are voted to spread water in the upper Santa Ana are of undoubted benefit to the people of the upper counties, but of little benefit to us, and should it result in the establishment of rights by the people of the other counties, of permanent detriment to us.

SHERIFF RAIDS BIG CYPRESS BOOZE PLANT

Swooping down unexpectedly on a wholesale bootlegging plant, sheriff's officers last night arrested R. S. Davis at his home near Cypress and unearthed one of the largest liquor cutting plants which has been found in the county and confiscated a large amount of intoxicating liquor.

Davis was in the garage in the rear of the house when Undersheriff C. W. Riggle and Deputies Perry and Nickles raided the liquor establishment. He was working on his liquor cutting apparatus at the time of his arrest, officers said.

Liquor confiscated included 140 gallons of beer and 17 gallons of alcohol, which could have been made into three times as much whiskey. Equipment for cutting the alcohol and flavoring it, whiskey flavoring, bottles, caps and "pre-war" labels were also found.

Cases of beer were piled clear to the ceiling of the garage. Twelve one-gallon whiskey bottles, 12 half-gallon whiskey jugs, a case of quart whiskey bottes, bottle cappers, electric needles for artificial aging, funnels and other equipment were also taken by the raiding officers.

Davis had been operating in his location for only five days before officers raided the place. Large scale wholesale booteggers now have a scheme whereby they move about every week to keep out of the arms of the law, officers pointed out, and they believe that Davis was about ready to move again when he was arrested.

Two cars which were believed to have been ready to load up with liquor while the officers were at the garage, left as they saw the auto used by the officers near the place.

Beer apparently was one of the "best sellers" the alleged bootlegger handled. He had cases of malt for making beer and three 15-gallon crocks formaking the beverage.

Davis was lodged in the county jail last night on a charge of possession of liquor. He gave his occupation as a pipe-fitter and his age as 26.

Minister Talks Politics Before Santa Ana Lions

"My Platform if I Were a Candidate for Office," was the subject of an address before the Santa Ana Lions club at its weekly luncheon Thursday by the Rev. F. P. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church.

Rev. Schrock discussed thoroughly his ideas of what platforms of political parties should be if they give less attention to politics and more to patriotism. Before giving his address he announced to his audience that he will deliver the same address in his pulpit in the near future and requested that the newspapers not be allowed to "steal his thunder" in advance of his congregation.

WATSON WILL END REVIVAL HERE SUNDAY

Rev. W. R. Watson, evangelist, who has been conducting a revival campaign at the Paul Rader Tabernacle, Third and Bush streets, will deliver his farewell sermon of the campaign Sunday night, he announced today. The subject of his final address will be, "The Mark of the Beast," and "The Signs of the Times."

Rev. Watson will not leave the city immediately after closing his revival campaign as a concurrent announcement says he will preach Monday night at the test at West Fifth and Forest streets, where the Tate Sisters are conducting a thirty-day non - denominational evangelistic campaign.

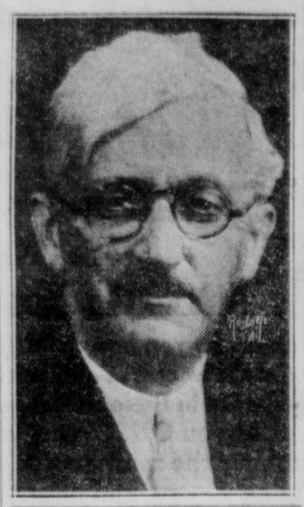

The Tate sisters today appealed to all ministers and church people of Santa Ana and surrounding cities to cooperate and attend the services.

Last night Rev. Watson delivered an address on "The Second Coming of Christ," in which he declared: "The second coming of Jesus is mentioned 318 times in the New Testament and takes up eight times as much space in the Bible as does the subject of His first coming. Yet strange to say, many do not believe in his second coming."

When the subject is mentioned he said many people reply to the effect that they heard their grandparents speak of it 50 years ago, "but he hasn't come yet." "That is very probable," said the Rev. Mr. Watson, "for Enoch, the seventh from Adam, talked about the second coming of Christ 6000 years ago. The Scripture is very clear that Jesus is coming again, and the angels that stood by when Jesus was taken up into heaven by a cloud said to the 500 people who watched him go, "Why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus shall come in like manner as yet have seen him go."

FOX BROADWAY JAMMED WITH 2000 CHILDREN

With the Fourth of July but a scant 11 days away 2000 boys and girls of Santa Ana and vicinity were given a preliminary celebration this morning when the Fox Broadway, Stein's Stationery store and The Register joined in staging a party at the theater which was followed by gifts of fireworks at Stein's.

Long before the hour set for the show at 10 o'clock this morning, youngsters from in town and from out of town gathered at the theater and in a short time a long double queue was formed around the corner of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank, where impatient young guests of the trio of hosts waited for doors to open to admit them.

After a program of short subjects and news reels, the feature, "A Dark Horse," was shown and it is safe to say that parents will hear in the coming days thousands an dthousands of times, the cryptic answer given in the film by the rotund governor-elect Hicks, who replies on numerous occasions, "Well, yes, and then again, no."

The intricate complications of an amusing political situation were followed with deep interest by the young audience who lost none of the fine points of humor, and cheers and yells greeted the rescue of the would-be governor from an embarrassing position.

Scarcely had the last bit of film passed through the projector than a dozen or more small boys and two enthusiastic little girls had reached the corner of Fourth and Broadway where they were met by Sergeant R. W. Barnard of the Santa Ana police department, who with Officer N. C. Nelson and Roscoe Conklin, manager of the circulation department of The Register, kept the happy milling group in order and sent them in the time-honored order of two by two, into the stationery store to receive their gift of fireworks.

Even the Pied Piper would have had difficulty in keeping the crowd of young patriots in order, as they surged forward, big brothers in many instances carrying their younger brothers on their shoulders. At Stein's the employes worked at high pressure speed in handing out the fireworks. As the crowd was so much larger than had been anticipated, some of those arriving in the last relays were given orders to be filled. Each child was given a folder by The Register telling them how they could obtain more free fireworks.

"I never knew there were so many children in Santa Ana," remarked a passerby as he viewed the short and tall, blond and brunet, red heads and curly heads, in the excited crowd which almost held up traffic in one of the gayest, happiest parades witnessed for some time.

"We are very glad to have had a part "in the party," said Lew Newcomb, manager of the Fox Broadway, when the last guest had departed. Union operators and employes of the theater donated their services to the show where every available seat was filled. The show is the second Fourth of July events to be given by the three concerns.

BIG CROWD TO SEE DRUMMERS DRILL TONIGHT

The Santa Ana Bowl is expected to be filled to capacity tonight, when the Santa Ana American Legion Drum and Bugle corps entertains with a Drum Corps party, to which the entire public of Orange county is invited.

The local corps is hailed as the prospective national championship drum corps, and tonight's event was planned to give the public an opportunity to get thoroughly acquainted with this crack organization and its work.

Five drum corps will take part in an exhibition drill contest and will provide a colorful spectacle seldom seen in Orange county. Anaheim, Torrance, San Bernardino and the colored Benjamin Bowie post of Los Angeles are sending their Legion drum corps to participate in the contest.

From the largest colored post in the state will come 87 men, in full uniform, comprising their drill team and drum corps. This will be the first appearance in Orange county of this snappy colored aggregation.

Initiating the program at 7:30, will be an old-timers ball game between the Santa Ana and Anaheim American Legion posts. Creaky joints will be oiled up, flabby muscles will be exerted, sluggish brains will be called on to remember how one played baseball 20 years ago, and altogether a good time will be had by all.

Proceeds of the Drum Corps party, after defraying the expenses of the visiting drum corps, will be used to assist the Santa Ana corps in its campaign to bring fame and glory to Santa Ana as the home of the best drum and bugle corps in the United States. Tickets are 25 cents and may be purchased at the gate this evening.

Juvenile Water MEANS THIS TO GEOLOGISTS

In the science of hydrology three kinds of water are known:

1. Distilled; 2. Vadose; 3. Juvenile. Distilled water, of course, is laboratory made. Vadose waters are those more or less recently fallen from the sky (such as rain water, well water, river water, surface spring water, and water from so-called artesian wells). Juvenile water is the rarest of all — being newly formed by nature's fusion of oxygen and hydrogen deep in the earth, far removed from contamination.

Do you realize what it means to you?

It means palate-pleasing water which will remind you of that cool mountain spring of some cherished past vacation.

It means pure water—safe water—from a source far removed from any possible contamination.

It means "soft" water.

In short, it means Arrowhead Spring Water (for Arrowhead is the only juvenile water available commercially in Western cities).

There's One Way To Be Sure!

Since pure drinking water is such a vital good-health requirement—and since this juvenile water costs no more than ordinary bottled waters—can you afford to let your family be without it? And no one need be without it. Just telephone! We will gladly deliver a 5-gallon bottle with a guarantee that it must please you—or your moneyback.

FACES LIFE TERM FOR HAVING DRUG

Facing the possibility of spending the remainder of his life in the penitentiary as an habitual criminal, Albert Cain pleaded not guilty this morning in superior court to a charge of possession of morphine and three prior felony convictions. He demanded a jury trial which was set for July 21 by Superior Judge James L. Allen.

According to the information filed against Cain by the district attorney's office, he served his first sentence in the A kansas penitentiary. He entered the penitentiary October 15, 1916, and served one year for larceny.

January 29, 1918, he was sentenced and served two years in the Texas state penitentiary for burglary and returned in December, 1925, for two mo e years on a similar offense.

If convicted of having morphine in his possession, Cain will automatically be declared an habitual criminal and face a life sentence in prison. The morphine was found concealed in his cap when he was arrested several weeks ago by Orange police.

ORANGE COUNTY STANDS AT CRUCIAL CROSSROADS ON VEXATIOUS WATER PROBLEM

BY LOYAL K. KING

Orange county, on the water question, is distinctly at the parting of the ways. Either she is going in to protect herself and insure her future, or she is going to permit the forces which are now drawing upon her water supply finally to destroy her literally through the route of thirst.

If the contract made between the Board of Supervisors and the Tri-county Water Conservation Association is valid, and will stand up before the courts, Orange county might just as well "kiss good-bye" any program for water conservation in the Santa Ana valley, either at Prado or anywhere else.

This alleged "contract" provides that this Tri-County Association cannot spread water in the Upper Santa Ana until the water in the Santa Ana river has reached the Chapman street bridge. By implication, the Tri-County Water Conservation Association insists that this means that they can spread it when it does reach the bridge. They have been operating in harmony with this contract being valid. The Board of Supervisors have signed it. The Tri-County Water Conservation Association claims that it is fair, but the truth is that there is nothing fair about it, and it insures a constantly decreasing water content in the lower Santa Ana basin.

The reasons for making this statement are perfectly obvious, if you will but think a moment. In flood time, the Santa Ana river spreads over a wide area in Orange county, and it is the surface area over which water spreads that determines the amount that percolates beneath the surface and reaches the underground basin. In fact, the amount of water that enters the ground is in direct proportion to the surface area covered.

When the Tri-County Water Conservation Association, therefore, is permitted to take all of the water above the amount necessary or required to reach the Chapman street bridge, it practically has control and possession of all water that would enter the underground basin of Orange county during flood times.

When the Tri-County spreading program is completed there will be no more widening of river through flood flow. The highest it will ever reach will be the mere water flowing under the Chapman street bridge. This will absolutely result in the drying up of the underground basin of the Lower Santa Ana.

About Building Dam

Supposing we build a dam on the Upper Santa Ana at Prado, a conservation dam, if you please. Under these circumstances it is probable that no water would reach the Chapman street bridge. In such a case as that, the Tri-County Water Conservation Association could divert or spread no water if we could hold them to the contract. But by the time Orange county reaches the point where it would be putting in a dam like that, the rights, if they have any under this contract with the Orange county supervisors, would be established and Orange county could be enjoined from interfering with the water that they might secure through the construction of a dam.

In fact, there appears very clearly in Francis Cuttle's statement in The Register, of Wednesday, an open declaration that they already have permits for a certain amount of water which they propose to maintain. Mr. Cuttle's statement in this paragraph, is a strong note of warning, as well as a clear defiance to Orange county. Did you note that he said the Water Conservation Association filed on 15,000 miners inches or about 6000 acre feet back as far as 1911, and he declares they hold a permit for 48,000 acre feet as of May, 1926, and another of 250,000 acre feet of October 25th, 1930, and he closed this statement with these words: "And the directors of the association have no intention of letting these permits lapse for lack of diligence."

I would congratulate the directors of this association for the diligence which they have shown in the past years. But by the same token this practical defiance should arouse the people of Orange county to what is happening in the upper Santa Ana, to the end that the further jeopardizing or destruction of their rights may be prevented. As to how much water the Tri-Counties Water Conservation Association can maintain they have a right to by reason of unprotested use for five years, will probably be for the court to determine, after competent testimony is advanced.

But certainly if Orange county continues to let them increase this amount, unprotested, the drying up of Orange county's basin is as certain to come as sunshine is to appear from day to day.

Mr. Cuttle in his article produces figures which from their nature are confusing to one who has not studied the question, and certainly are terribly misleading. It comes in his discussion of Engineer Elliott's report that there has been a decrease in the water supply in Orange county by reason of the conservation of water in the upper basin. Mr. Cuttle attempts to refute this by comparing figures of 1888 and 1889 with the average figures of some 29 years following this. But he does it by citing the figures in regard to the surface flow of water and which does not determine by any means the water which actually goes into the basin. The amount of water that percolates into the basin is determined by the water flowing under the surface as well as water flowing on the surface.

To illustrate, it is entirely possible that through the process of returning irrigation water directly into the channel of the river, there might be a sustained flow in number of inches in the channel, but by reason of the fact that no big flood flow is spreading out at any time over a larger area, less water will get into the basin than there would be with periods of great flood spreading over large areas and with an average smaller flow in the channel.

Takes Issue With Cuttle

The process by which this water is being diverted in the spreading process has not come into its full purpose. But if there is no interference by Orange county that day is not far away The absurdity of the argument that Mr. Cuttle puts up on behalf of the Tri-Counties Water Conservation association is perfectly apparent when one realizes that Mr. Cuttle maintains that there is actually more water in the lower Santa Ana to go into its basin after the water in its upper course has been diverted and spread and used for irrigation purposes when from 75 to 85 per cent of it never reaches the lower Santa Ana as return irrigation water.

Think of this a moment. This is the statement of engineers. Then, if through these various dams and spreading processes, 75 per cent of the water which has been coming down the Santa Ana in its natural way shall be used in spreading grounds, Santa Ana has available not over 22 per cent of what she formerly had. Mr. Cuttle's arument is based on the theory that with a limited supply of water, that the more they take away from us, the more we have. Its absurdity is only surpassed by the audacity, and may I say, the nerve of the men in presenting such an argument.

I have gone over the spreading grounds. I have seen the work that is being done. I have counselled with engineers. I have noted Mr. Elliott's report, and I am certain that if the people of Orange county, in a body could make the same trip over the same area, they would come back and with a practically unanimous voice declare that we must institute action for the protection of our rights.

And now imagine that these gentlemen want Orange county to contribute money and to join in its own undoing. I am confident that even the Anaheim Union Water company and the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company are extremely unwise for their own stockholders in pursuing such a course. They are sacrificing all of this other water that might fill our underground basin, simply for the return and left over irrigation water that flows during the summer months, which these companies may get by gravity flow, and thereby save the cost of pumping. They are sacrificing by this action, all of that greater water which would fill our underground basin.

This, in the last analysis, they are dependent upon, as is the rest of the county, and those of them who are joining in with the Riverside and San Bernardino group are contributing strongly to their own undoing, as well as ours. They are doing this for a small amount of free water, so to speak, for which they do not have to pay to pump, and are paying for it with a surrender of all of the rest of the county, including finally their own. The vanishing water from the basin will finally tell upon their members, if it is not doing so already. The members of these companies, and particularly the Anaheim Union Water company, will learn finally through the added cost of their water, because of litigation and other things, that any leadership which tends to sacrifice great permanent values for a "little cash down," so to speak, is not only finally unwise, but suicidal.

May I clarify this point. Take it in the flood time, rainy months of our year. The water of the river naturally spreads over a larger expanse of territory. It is during this period that our underground basin is replenished. But it is during this period that our water companies, who are a part of this association, are less interested, compared with the other sections of the county. These companies are primarily interested in the surface flow, and they are willing to surrender apparently all this wider expanse of water to Riverside and San Bernardino county in return for the smaller surface flow which is continued into a larger number of months, but which of course does not replenish in any such manner, the basin of the lower Santa Ana as these wider flows do. In other words, the water companies are interested only in this surface flow, and they are surrendering this larger flow, helpful to the whole county and even themselves, in consideration of getting the smaller irrigation surface water, of which they take all during these other months. This of course cannot permanently continue.

This that I have referred to is well brought out by Mr. Cuttle himself, where he says: "The purpose of spreading water on the debris cone above the artesian basin is to maintain the supply of water at the artesian basin. By doing that and using that water for irrigating and domestic purposes in the Riverside area the return water flows uninterruptedly into Orange county and that is the reason that the (surface) flow into Orange county has increased from 517 inches to an average of over 1700 inches." On the face of things this appears like a beneficial result for Orange county. But this water, if it were not held in the artesian basin, would have to come down in the Santa Ana river in flood waters, covering a large area, and thereby insuring that a larger portion of it would get into our underground basin. In other words, the 15 per cent of the total water which we should have, and we do actually get, is made to appear under circumstances where we can see it, and the other 85 per cent is lost to us forever.

I do not believe that any attorneys at law would hold that this alleged "contract" between the Supervisors and the Tri-Counties Water Conservation Association is binding upon any ranchers or cities or anyone having property rights, who might be jeapordized by the flow of the Santa Ana. But unless the cities and ranchers protect their interests at once there is certain to be an increased amount which a court would hold is the right of these companies by continued use without protest. Anyone can see by examination of the facts that Orange County has been "sleeping on its rights." It is just waking up. Four of Orange county's supervisors are thoroughly determined to protect the interests of Orange county.

There is nothing more important before the people of this county than to have a constant record of the amount of water that is being used and has been used, and of directing the Conservation engineer to at once construct laterals for spreading purposes in our own basin. For let it be noted that this alone would help our supply of water. If we should do between Chapman street bridge and the Prado basin what they are doing in the Upper Santa Ana, the water would be diverted and put into our own basin, and it would not reach the Chapman street bridge.

If we kept this up long enough and are suficiently, comprehensive in our work, it should seldom reach the Chapman street bridge, and we would have the water in the basin. We can realize why this has not been done, for we have been lulled into the belief that our water interests were being taken car of by those whose interests were directly at conflict with ours.

Orange county has its rights in the river. Some part of those rights have already been forfeited, because of the 1911 action. The rest of them will go if we are not on the alert. The small amount of money necessary to ascertain the information through the county engineering department and the small cost of spreading the water, will return a thousand fold to our county.

Private citizens and the municipalities of Orange county should join in such legal action as will protect our rights forthwith. If this is not done, it is only a matter of time when Orange county will be little better than a Sahara. And that time might be at a very much earlier date than some people imagine.

A Few Misrepresentations And Answers Thereto

(An Editorial)

We do not like to clutter up The Register with personal criticisms or replies thereto, but occasionally one is published which uncovers so clearly certain forces with which The Register is out of harmony, that it is well worth while to show our readers what editors are saying, who are advocates of the things against which The Register is fighting. This particular one comes from the Newport News of a week ago. It is headed "Unemployment From Outside Sources." We will print the whole editorial, paragraph by paragraph, and comment thereon. In the first paragraph, the editor says:

> Within the week Frank Burke's Santa Ana Unemployed association has come into the harbor district to create more dissatisfaction among our citizens out of work in seeking to induce them to form a Jobless organization.

When our attention was called to this editorial, it was the first notice we had that there had been any effort to organize the unemployed in Newport Beach. We made inquiry, and found that the president of the Unemployed Association of the city of Santa Ana had been requested by some of the unemployed of Newport to come down and tell them about the work of the Unemployed Association in Santa Ana. This Unemployed Association is a group of the men, themselves unemployed, who have organized a commissary department, and are doing everything possible to help themselves and their comrades. We wish we could flatter ourselves to the extent that we could say that we had started it, but we did not.

We have supported it editorially, and in every way through publicity, because of the fine work it has been doing. But our contributions have been made to the City's Unemployment Emergency committee, which is an entirely different organization, but which has been helping, as we all have helped this Unemployment group. We have supported the City's committee, this Unemployment Association, the Elks, and in fact, every organization and group that is aiding the unemployed. And we have learned that the committee in Newport Beach, that has been helping in the unemployment work, is in entire harmony with this meeting of the Unemployment association.

The Newport News next goes on to say:

> When one remembers that the Santa Ana Register whose editor has avowedly stated that his mission is to "get" the Board of Supervisors and the First National bank, is doing more to create strife under the cloak of righteousness, then it is meet and proper that one should talk out and present the facts.
> At the present time the county seat is torn asunder over the antics of Burke, who, peeved because he cannot get the political favors he feels his due, lambasts right and left to gain his ends. So long as he remains in his own bailiwick we have no concern over what he attempts in Santa Ana, but when he seeks to branch out into other sections, then it is indeed time to demand a showdown.

We want to say that the publisher of the Newport News knows better than this.

Neither The Register nor its publisher has ever been out to "get" the Board of Supervisors, and certainly not the First National Bank. As far as the First National Bank is concerned, we have supported it in its programs at different times, and expect to. As a bank it is ably run. It is a strong financial institution. We are depositors in it, we are borrowers from it. We would aid it in every way possible in all of its banking work, and it deserves such aid.

Neither has The Register been out to "get" the Board of Supervisors. The Register is standing for certain principles, and naturally those who oppose such principles realize that the influence of The Register may be directed to the election of those who espouse them. We are frankly opposed to an invisible government in our county politics. We are opposed to having the public business done in secret. We are opposed to taking the money of the taxpayer and paying it out to friends, and at higher prices for goods or services, than could be obtained through business methods for the taxpayer. We are opposed to having the taxpayers' money in the county used to pay personal political debts.

We are in favor of a reduction in the expenses of county government, and many of these principles and others have been opposed by some of the members of the Board of Supervisors. The political activities out of harmony with these principles, we are opposed to, whether they are done by men on the Board of Supervisors, or men related to a grocery, a bank, a garage, a speakeasy or even defended by an editor who is always for the "machine," and the politicians, if they let him in on the "divide."

We know that the only strife there is in Santa Ana is the strife occasioned by those people who are trying to do the things politically and in a manner to which The Register is opposed. There are fewer of them today than there were four years ago.

To be sure, we recognize that standing for these principles arouses those who are profiting by their violation. You can tell who is profiting by the yells they make when you are standing against graft. Those who have ever fed a calf, know that when you see a calf's tail wiggling, it is certain that milk is going in the other end. You can apply this with perfect form to the publisher of the Newport News.

The editor then goes on to say:

> Those of us who remember Burke's attempt a few months ago to arrest all slot machine adherents here and the fiasco, can rest assured that his present motive to create a political maneuver in the unemployed situation, is just one of many efforts he is using to gain control of Orange county.

We do not know exactly what the editor refers to as a "fiasco" in regard to the slot machines. The Register stands frankly against gambling and gambling devices. As a result of its campaign, these devices were driven very largely from all sections of Orange county, and the owners prevented from taking the money from the families of men who could ill afford to squander their money in that way. We know that in Newport Beach cases were tried, where convictions were not had. We presume this is what the editor refers to.

A few weeks ago we were called up by an attorney in this city, and asked what we would take financially to agree to keep quiet on the slot machines. He said that he had been offered five per cent gross on the total business of the slot machines, if he could keep The Register quiet.

As to whether the attitude which The Register assumes upon this matter is commendatory, or that of the position taken by the Newport Beach News, depends entirely upon the character of the man, and his outlook, who expresses the opinion. We know that the slot machine fellows are willing to pay for the attitude assumed by the Newport Beach paper.

Of course we are quite confident no such consideration prompts the Newport Beach editor to attack The Register and its publisher. The Newport editor's sense of honor is so keen that this attack on The Register and its publisher comes only from a fine and exalted sense of public duty.

However, we want to say we are increasingly proud of the character of opposition we encounter in standing for the principles in which we believe. We hope that we can continue to so conduct ourselves in respect to such questions as to be found worthy of opposition by the defenders of such institutions as the slot machines.

We are not endeavoring to get control of Orange county. We adhere to certain fundamental principles in government, which seem to have an increasing number of adherents. For this we are grateful.

The editor then goes on to say:

> Newport Beach and Costa Mesa have well organized Welfare groups. In Newport Beach these workers have been laboring without pay and have accomplished a splendid task in the short time they have been at it. Burke's Jobless organization is on a money basis with some of the officers drawing salaries and the organizer already on the pay-roll of those who are sponsoring the movement.
> Local citizens have been satisfied with our Welfare Relief thus far and the bulk of our sane citizens believe quite sincerely that they can proceed along the line laid down without the benign influence of J. Frank Burke.

We may say we are strongly for any organized welfare group, in Newport or Costa Mesa. The man who came down from Santa Ana in response to requests from the unemployed in Newport Beach, is not in an organization whose officers receive a dollar for their work. No officer draws any salary from it. The man whom he designates as an organizer never was on the payroll, and as a matter of fact, there isn't any payroll. The Citizens' committee of Santa Ana employed a secretary, and assistants, who unquestionably earned their salaries. But these are not the ones or anyone representing them, who came to Newport Beach.

For an untruthful, malignant, unfair and venal misrepresentation, we believe this editorial from the Newport Beach paper is probably the most superb example that we have noted in many weeks. We have a higher opinion of Newport Beach and its people than to believe that that character of editorial policy represents them in any real sense.

ADVENTURE AND TRAVEL BOOKS PROVE POPULAR

ORANGE, June 24.—The urge for adventure and for out of door life comes to the fore with the summer months, declares Mrs. Mabel Faulkner, city librarian, and this desire is shown in the choice of books for summer reading. Books on sailing, boating, gardening and travel are especially wanted at the present time, says Mrs. Faulkner.

New books in the library include "Brothers," by L. A. G. Strong, author of the widely read book, "The Garden." Peattie; "In Desperation," by E. W. Savi; "The World Against Mary," an English novel of birth-control, by Josef Maria Frank, which has been translated into 20 languages.

"Albert, the Good," Hector Bolitho, a brilliant biography of the consort of Queen Victoria illustrated in the most delightful manner; "The Story of My Life," by Clarence Darrow; "Way of the Lancer," by Richard Boleslavski and Helen Woodward, a personal narrative of a Polish lancer in the days when Czarist Russia went to pieces; "Lee of Virginia," by William E. Brooks; "Phillip of Spain," by David Loth.

"Adventures of a Novelist," by Gertrude Atherton; "Expression in America," by Ludwig Lewisohn; "Breakdown; the Collapse of Traditional Civilization," by Robert Briffault; "Thunder and Dawn," by Glenn Frank, a book of adventurous thinking about the problems confronting western civilization; "Manchuria," by Owen Lattimore; "Arabia Felix," by Bertram Thomas; "Brown Women and White," Andrew A. The reservation includes 4000 acres of land, which is divided into 10-acre tracts. The Indians raise cotton and garden truck, she stated.

STRATEGY BOARD PREPARES FOR MASS MEETING IN JULY

ORANGE, June 24.—Members of the Board of Strategy of this city met last night in the parlors of the First Methodist church to perfect plans for a mass meeting to be held either July 24 or July 31 at the First Presbyterian church. A well known speaker will address the audience.

D. C. Drake, chairman of the committee, presided. A canvass of the city previous to the August primaries was one of the plans discussed.

Dr. R. B. McAulay suggested that Roy Albren King, author of "The Psychology of Drunkenness," be secured if possible. It was said that Miss Harriet Armour is to speak in Santa Ana July 25 and in Fullerton July 24 and that the meeting at Santa Ana is designed as a county-wide meeting. Miss Armour is nationally known as a temperance speaker.

At the beginning of the meeting Frank L. Ainsworth spoke briefly, describing conditions which had prevailed before prohibition.

It was brought out that the ultimate aim of the board should be to stand behind dry candidates selected and not to have several dry candidates while the wets had but one. The Rev. Franklin Minck said that personal preference must be put aside for the cause of prohibition.

Honor Pastor At Reception For Members

ORANGE, June 25.—When members of the Walther league of St. John's Lutheran church met to welcome members of the newly confirmed class of the church this week, they combined the occasion with a farewell party for the assistant pastor of the church, the Rev. Armand Mueller, who leaves this week for St. Louis, Mo., and who will assume his duties as pastor of the Van Nuys Lutheran church on his return to California.

The dining roo mhwr eethe dinner was served was elaborately decorated with red, white and blue and the streamers in these colors were caught in the chandeliers and a unique arrnagement of silver stars about the lights furthered the patriotic motif chosen.

The principal speaker of the evening was the Walter Weigman, president of the Walther league of the Trinity Lutheran church of Los Angeles, who spoke on the objects of the league. He explained the hospice system maintained by the league by means of which every member of a Lutheran church is welcomed when he moves into a new community. One of the important activities, he said, was the publication of the Walther League Messenger. He explained the work being done by league members at the eubercular sanitarium at Wheatridge, Colo.

COUNTY HEALTH CONTINUES AS UNDER NORMAL

BY K. H. SUTHERLAND, M.D.
Health Officer

The year is almost half over and a brief survey of health records is in order. Contagious disease has prevailed to about the same extent as last year which is some less than normal. Chickenpox leads the list with 1413 cases reported and isolated, while among the more serious quarantinable illnesses scarlet fever rings up a total of 153 cases.

Tuberculosis is apparently on the increase over last year. Seventy-three new cases have been reported so far this year as compared with 44 for the same period of last. We hope that the remaining months will not continue to add so rapidly to this total.

A grand total of 2263 cases of communicable disease has been isolated or quarantined so far this year. Two hundred and twelve tuberculin skin tests have been performed by doctors of the department, 235 suspect cases brought for examination and a total of 2650 visits made in tuberculosis control work

A total of 12,883 visits has been made by members of the department to cases, contacts and suspects in the control of communicable disease. Most of these cases have been discovered through the schools or with the help of neighbors or from the reporting of parents themselves. A relatively small percentage has been reported through the doctors' offices, a fact which we feel can be attributed to the effects of the depression. This circumstance has placed an added responsibility upon members of the health department in their efforts to prevent the spread of contagion in the community.

Diphtheria on Wane

The number of diphtheria cases has been less than normal for this year with a total of 40 reported. It is quite probable that the program of diphtheria immunizations which has been continued over several years is beginning to have its effect. Seventeen hundred and eighty-four children have completed a course of immunization against diphtheria so far this year, while 811 individuals have been vaccinated against smallpox.

It is interesting to note that there have been only two cases of rabies in dogs this year as compared with 32 cases for the same period of last year. However, 99 people were bitten by dogs during the past few months and 103 animals were placed in quarantine pending possible development of rabid symptoms. With the exception of the two cases of positive rabies, the other quarantined animals were released because they showed no suggestive symptoms of the disease.

Our child hygiene program has been especially heavy this year. Since January, 261 clinics for babies and children have been held. These clinics have been attended by 4294 children and parents. We have been particularly fortunate in having the services of Dr. Mabel Geddes of the state department of health this year in our Mexican clinics. Dr. Geddes speaks Spanish fluently and the record of improvements in health among her clinic patients has been amazing, in spite of the poor economic conditions which are prevalent. Each case of illness prevented among these people helps to lighten by just that much the burden being born by the county hospital and its clinic. A detailed summary of the total attendance at Dr. Geddes' clinics with the tabulation of defects found and corrected is available in the office for those interested. Out of 2154 physical defects discovered in all of our clinics, a total of 778 are known to have been corrected.

The statistical summary of school activities is self-explanatory.

Improvement Noted

Dairy inspections and sanitary inspections both show an increase over the number made last year, in spite of the fact that no dairy inspections were made during the recent outbreak of hoof and mouth disease in the county. One thousand seven hundred dairy inspections and 14,622 sanitary inspections have been made since the first of the year. There is a constant improvement in the type of foodhandling establishments in the county. Every month shows its quota of money expended for such improvements, but there are still many establishments that need a careful supervision on the part of inspectors in order to insure proper sanitary surroundings for the handling of food.

The number of specimens examined at the public health laboratory has continued to increase by leaps and bounds during the past few years. During the last five years, the number of specimens submitted for examination has increased almost three times, and yet, during that period, there has been no increase in personnel in that branch of our department. A total of 12,154 specimens has been submitted for examination so far this year on which 30,118 different examinations have been performed.

TEACHER HOSTESS

PLACENTIA, June 24.—Mrs. Olive Johnson, a teacher in the Placentia union grammar school district, was hostess to a group of teachers at a picnic luncheon and party this week. After lunch, they inspected the botanical gardens of the Susanna Bixby Bryant ranch. Attending were Mrs. Marian Harlow, Mrs. Floma Sloop, Mrs. Katherine Hampton, Mrs. Bessie Twombly and Miss Marie Cline.

Take the New Dances into your Living Room

Mary Wigman Tells How to Use Them

By MRS. PENROSE LYLY

DO you feel desolate, weary of life? Go dance that mood away. Are you happy, full of hope and courage? Then dance that glorious feeling and find health and stimulation and more joy in the frank expression of the dance.

No matter what your age, go dance. No matter how heavy your limbs, how stiff your spine, how awkward your body can be, you can make yourself into a flexible instrument that will drain away your troubles and bring you new powers. Such is the advice of Mary Wigman, creator of a revolutionary conception of the dance.

"I was bony, strong, vigorous, certainly anything but dainty," this renowned German dancer, who has performed before 150,000 Americans, explains. "To be a dancer, one was supposed to be dainty. But I had to dance.

"I was 27 years old when I began. People laughed at me at first. But I knew that dancing could be a form of speech for everyone. It had to be honest speech, not a copy of what someone else had said. And now people believe me."

MISS WIGMAN'S dancing is regarded as original and as startling in its way as was that of Isadora Duncan or Pavlowa.

"Without meaning to, I have really discovered new means of artistic recreation for everyone," she believes. "You need not be graceful or talented to profit by the dance. Stenographers, clerks, housewives and workmen can all dance.

"In a little time they will find that their bodies will express shades of their own personal emotions. Nimble feet, double-jointed spine, airy body—you do not need these to dance away your worries. You just need to make your body flexible, sensitive. Then you can get your recreation and stimulating exercise through honest dancing.

"Yes, I mean it—everyone can dance. No woman is too old to begin.

"Can everyone become an artist? No, only a few can do that. But everyone should dance for the fun of it. They will be happier and more healthy if they do."

This creative woman, who is not beautiful in the accepted sense, nor graceful as we usually think of it, has just finished a five months' tour of the United States. After a visit to Niagara Falls, she amazed her audiences by dancing out her emotions as raised by the stark power of the Falls.

NEXT year, on her return, with 15 girls from her famous German school, she will dance her impressions of the western deserts.

"In that land there seems to be no materialism," she says. "I felt a total dissolution of mind and body. I was excited, happy in a vital way.

"To me, your desert has the same frankness—shocking at first—as your young people. They don't hide anything. They have their ideals but they look them straight in the eye. Not so with the young people in my country. They feel deeply. But they do not speak out their feelings."

Miss Wigman thinks that America is the ideal place for the modern dance.

"The vast plains with their astonishing lights, and your rough mountains, wonderful rivers command the human being to use his physical strength joyously," she says. "That's what the modern dance is—the joyous use of physical power.

"You don't have to be wealthy or gifted to use your powers joyously."

Mary Wigman, in a pose in one of her new dances.

Helping Baby to His First Coat of Tan

EVEN the very youngest girls and boys seem to realize that an even coat of tan is a thing of beauty. But infants, like their elders, must follow the beauty rule: tan slowly, a little at a time, and avoid ugly and painful sunburn.

Sunlight, of course, is an absolute necessity to baby's health, and during the summer months he can get enough of it to protect him during the winter.

In very hot weather, give the children their sun baths in the morning or late afternoon, when the sun is not too burning. The sun will not hurt young eyes unless they turn directly toward it. Even babies a month old need their sun baths and can stand the glare safely, provided they do not stare into the sun.

Begin the summer sun bath with a 10-minute session. If possible, remove all the child's clothing. Or at least, put him in one of those sunsuits that is really no more than a few straps.

Let the sun shine directly first on his front and then on his back for five minutes. Every day after this first, increase the time for his sun bath by three minutes.

When You Pick Your Husband a New Tie

IT'S an old tradition that every man should blossom out with a new tie for Fourth of July. This summer he will find that the designs of summer ties have stopped reducing their figures.

Larger and more vivid figures will brighten the stalwart necks of the men this year, and the once so-popular stripes will give squares and circles and checks a place in the sun.

Silk, of course, is the most used material, but many men like the newer woolen ties, printed in checks. But don't let your husband or brother or boy friend forget that these novelties are only for summer wear, not for the office.

More vivid colors are being seen even around conservative collars. Browns and blue are the favorites, with maroons and gray the runners-up. A combination of checks of red, black and white is one of the gayest and most flattering of the new selection.

Painful as it may be, you will have to accept the news that the most popular color in the latest pastel socks, said to be the smartest note in men's clothes for this season, is canary.

After this surprise, you can accept quietly the news that pale green also seems to please the boys. Blue, tan and gray are of course as favored as ever.

They seem to be taking to lisle a lot, especially in mesh effects. Then there are very short wool socks for flannel trousers, usually in plain pastel tones or white. These look rather sportive and youthful on the beach, golf links and tennis court, but rather out of place in more conservative surroundings.

And while you are deciding what your men folks will wear this summer, you might think a little about the lightweight, washable, soft and really handsome corduroys just offered to the particular male.

These are quite new, and nothing at all like the corduroy pants small boys adore. If you want flannels for your favorite husband, get them without stripes. White, fawn and gray are the most used colors.

Don't take your men seriously when they tell you they aren't interested in new summer sports clothes. Take them firmly by the hand and lead them down town and see to it that they get togged out properly.

They need a little more color in their lives, too, and will brighten up and sing around the house and garden when they can strut their canary socks, giddy ties and new corduroys. Men really like bright colors—usually they just pretend not to.

Keeping Cool on Independence Day

IN the old days, no display of fireworks was complete without a cold glass of "pink lemonade" to go with it. Here are some beverage recipes, a few of them pink, that can compete with any cool, refreshing drinks of the time when Dad was a boy.

Served in some of the colorful new glassware, all of it surprisingly inexpensive, these delicious and sparkling beverages will add snap and gaiety to the patriotic holiday.

Raspberry Punch

Mash 2 cups of canned raspberries through a sieve. Add 1 cup of orange juice, ½ cup of lemon juice, ½ cup of sugar syrup and 1 pint of charged water. This will taste even better if you stand the fruit juices and sugar syrup in the refrigerator for an hour before adding the pint of charged water.

Cherry Punch

To 2 cups of cooked cherries and juice, add ½ cup of lemon juice, 1 cup of orange juice, ½ cup of canned pineapple juice, sugar syrup to taste and, at the last moment, 1 pint of charged water. Garnish with fresh mint.

The juice of fresh-cooked rhubarb, bottled grape juice cider or grapefruit juice can be mixed with charged waters of blending flavors to produce not only colorful and refreshing summer drinks, but also very healthful ones. Tea, coffee and chocolate have a way of blending well in drinks and can be used freely. The combinations that can be made are many.

Tinkling Emeralds

Drain the green syrup from a small bottle of green maraschino cherries. Mix this with half sweet cider and half carbonated lime beverage.

Crush sprigs of fresh mint and dust with powdered sugar. Place a sprig in each glass. Pour in the beverage and garnish with the green cherries.

Hawaiian Beverage

Bruise fresh mint leaves and dust with powdered sugar. Blend together canned crushed pineapple, juice of fresh limes, white grape juice and ginger ale. If you have a mechanical refrigerator, make cubes of orange juice and ginger ale to chill this tropical beverage.

Frosted Chocolate

To make the chocolate syrup, cook together ½ cup of cocoa and 1 cup of cold water until smooth, stirring constantly. Add 2 cups of suger, ⅛ teaspoon of salt and 2 tablespoons of corn syrup. Then boil for only three minutes.

Cool and add 2 teaspoons of vanilla. Pour this in a glass jar and keep on hand in the refrigerator for chocolaty drinks for the family.

To make a glass of frosted chocolate, use 2 tablespoons of this chocolate syrup, ¼ cup of milk, 2/3 tablespoon of ice cream and ¼ cup of plain charged water. Stir well and serve at once.

Instead of serving the customary tea, many hostesses serve these cold beverages in summer, together with tiny sandwiches or small cookies.

Is your family thirsty? Send Mrs. Lyly a self-addressed stamped envelope for five more delicious beverage recipes.

Make Your Neckline Add to Your Charm

NECKLINES are extremely important on any frock because they frame the face, and much can be done with them to aid the picture they frame.

1. Guimpe dresses accentuate the bust and should only be worn by the young and slender.

2. Collars that rise high at the back of the neck and low at the front are slenderizing to the face and make the neck appear longer.

3. Flat, wide collars, spreading bows at the neck and cape effects broaden the face and shoulders and require a long, slender neck.

4. Any tendency to bulge at the back of the neck should be well covered.

5. Ascots at a high neckline are a bit slenderizing if they are not too wide.

6. Brassiere necklines broaden the bust.

7. Long V necklines are slenderizing, while extremely shallow ones are not.

8. Square necklines have a tendency to square the face.

9. A neckline that is adorned with ruffles will increase the width of your shoulders unless the ruffles are cleverly arranged.

The type of material also has much to do with the effect of your neckline. Large checks and large polka dots tend to make you appear larger. Plain materials give a slenderizing effect. Stripes that go around add inches to your girth. Vertical stripes make you appear taller.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Cherry Dixon, 19 and pretty, tells her mother she is going to a club meeting but instead meets Dan Phillips, newspaper reporter with whom she is in love. Her wealthy parents do not know she is acquainted with Dan. Cherry goes with him to interview a bank robber's sweetheart. She blunders into underworld headquarters and a bullet strikes her arm. Dan takes her to a doctor's office and then home. He is trying to explain what has happened when Mr. Dixon appears. Dixon is very angry and brandishes a newspaper containing an account of the shooting. He orders Dan from the house.

Days pass and Sarah, Cherry's maid, discovers Dan has telephoned and been told the girl is out of town. Cherry steals out of the house, meets Dan and explains. He tells her he loves her. When Cherry arrives home her father is waiting and accuses her of having met the reporter. Cherry defies her father and he orders her to apologize or leave. She runs out of the house. Later that evening she finds Dan, tells him what has happened, and says, "Let's get married?"

They are married by a justice of the peace. Friends of Dan's find them and stage a celebration. Cherry and Dan manage to steal away from the party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X

Cherry crossed the room and gave the window shade a tug. Bright morning sunshine was a fine thing, but too much of it was as bad as none. It blinded you.

She tossed her head back, shaking the tangled mass of dark hair into becoming disarray. Then she sat down in the big chair, leaned back and surveyed the room.

She made an amusing picture. Pulled about her and tied securely at the waist was Dan Phillips' old dressing gown. A strange purplish-red hue now, the dressing gown had once been a handsome brocade. It was many sizes too large. Cherry had rolled the sleeves back, but the shoulder seams reached almost to her elbows. Dainty lace trimmed lingerie showed where the dressing gown fell away. Her buckled pumps were tiny and narrow, her hose of the sheerest mesh.

Suddenly she jumped up and went to the dressing table. A sheet of paper lay there, a few words scrawled on it in pencil. Cherry picked up the paper and read:

"Cherry—I love you. Be ready to have lunch with me.

"I'll call some time after 12.—Dan."

She had read the words at least a dozen times. At first it had been a surprise to realize that never before had she seen Dan's handwriting. That was odd, and still it wasn't. There were so many things Cherry had yet to learn about this young husband of hers.

Her husband! The girl's smile became a dreamy sort of radiance. She caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror and stared, fascinated.

Was that what love did to you? She seemed an entirely different person than she had been yesterday. The worn-out dressing gown caught her eye and suddenly the smile became a rippling laugh. Of course she was a different person. She was Mrs. Daniel Phillips!

"Oh, I'm so happy!" Cherry sang aloud. "I'm so happy!" She whirled in a dashing pirouette and flung herself upon the bed.

Each morning at home Cherry had started the day with fruit, hot rolls and steaming coffee. Usually they were brought to her bedside on a tray. Sarah would be there to pour the coffee and ask if everything was as it should be. Sarah would bring a quilted satin breakfast coat and slip it about the girl's shoulders to keep her warm while she ate.

Sarah, bless her! Where was she and what was she doing now? What were Cherry's mother and father thinking of the way their daughter had run off the night before? Were the servants whispering and wondering what had happened? Did others outside the house know about it?

For an instant the girl felt a pang of guilt. Her mother would be worrying. Crying perhaps at this very moment. Cherry loved her mother. She loved her father, too—when he was not roaring out orders or frightening her. Perhaps she should write a note—

Cherry's chin raised and set in a firm line. No indeed! If she wrote they would imagine she was asking for forgiveness. She could not do it!

The dainty platinum watch on the girl's wrist reminded her it was growing late. Almost 10:30. There would be an hour and a half at least before Dan telephoned.

What about breakfast?

She decided not to go out for it; then almost instantly changed her mind. After all there was nothing to do until Dan called. A breath of fresh air and brisk walk would be good for her.

She discarded the dressing robe and hung it away. Dan's clothing crowded the tiny closet to overflowing. As Cherry turned she realized what a really hideous room this was. Dark, dismal paper on the walls. Worn spots in the carpet. Two of the dressing table drawers were pulled out revealing garments tossed about. Newspapers and magazines in staggering piles littered the table and one of the chairs. The furniture was not only out of date; it looked as though it had not been dusted for days.

What a contrast to her rose and blue boudoir at home!

Cherry considered this a moment, then shrugged. "We won't stay here long," she told herself. "Dan said we could move and I'll begin looking at apartments right after lunch."

The beige crepe Cherry had worn the night before hung over a chair. She held it up, shaking her head. It was certainly not a costume to wear to breakfast in a restaurant. The tiny cap sleeves and becoming neckline were of lace, over which skillful French fingers had labored for long hours. Too elaborate, too distinctive in its simple, unusual manner of cutting and seaming for the street.

Still there was no choice. Cherry slipped the frock over her head and snapped the fastenings.

Another note for her mental memorandum; she would have to buy some clothes.

With the polo coat pulled about her and the brown hat drawn down smartly Cherry set forth. Downstairs the hotel lobby, with its chandeliers still burning, looked exactly as it had the night before. A clerk she had not seen stood at the desk. Very self-consciously Cherry approached and left her room key.

She went out into the sunshine. The air was cool, bracing, but with that indefinable quality that never, never any but a day of spring can boast. Cherry breathed deeply, wondering why all the world was not out to enjoy the glorious morning.

She made her way to the restaurant where she and Dan had gone the night before. At the corner she stopped and bought a newspaper. The want ad pages might help her to find a place for her and Dan to live. Cherry had never read a want ad, but she understood vaguely that people who had apartments to rent advertised them there.

An apple-cheeked waitress in a fresh yellow uniform smiled at Cherry and presented the menu card.

"Orange juice, coffee and toast," the girl ordered. She spread the newspaper to its full size and glanced at the first page hastily. A heading caught her eye.

MISS DIXON BRIDE OF NEWSPAPER REPORTER

It was only a paragraph. The brief report stated that Miss Cherry Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Dixon of Sherwood Heights, and Daniel Phillips, reporter for the Wellington News, had been married the night before by Justice of the Peace Cunningham. The paragraph listed the schools Cherry had attended, adding that she was a popular member of the younger social set." Another sentence stated that Dan was on the News editorial staff and previously had been employed by the Sentinel.

Cherry was flushed and her eyes bright as she read the last words. So everyone knew! Her father and mother must have seen that paragraph. Well, they would understand now that she had meant what she said!

Lost in these thoughts Cherry scarcely noticed when the waitress returned with her order. She remembered shortly, drank the orange juice and coffee and nibbled at the toast. Then she paid her bill and departed.

She went directly to the hotel, anxious to hear from Dan. It seemed a long while before the telephone rang and his voice came over the wire.

"Hello. That you, Cherry?"

"Yes, Dan. I've been waiting for you."

"How are you, baby? Sorry I couldn't give you a ring earlier, but I've been chasing all over town. Listen, dear, we'll have to call off that lunch date."

"Oh, Dan!"

"It's bum luck, but there's no way out of it. I'm parked out here at the airport and there's no telling when we'll get away. Those two girl flyers were due half an hour ago and we'll have to wait till they land or word comes they're down. It wasn't supposed to be my assignment, but Groves is tied up at City Hall."

"But can't you—?"

"I can't do anything but stay here," Dan assured her. "I hate to disappoint you, honey, but I can't help myself. Try to find some way to amuse yourself and we'll make up for it with a bang-up dinner party tonight. Is that all right?"

Reluctantly she told him it was. Phillips said something that brought a quick smile to the girl's face and then the conversation was over.

Well—not only a long morning to herself, but the afternoon as well!

The newspaper in which she had intended to search for apartment addresses lay on the table, but suddenly Cherry's interest had waned.

She made up her mind to go shopping instead. There was less than $10 in her purse, but all her life Cherry had made purchases on charge accounts. Besides she simply had to have a dress. If she went to Maison Madelaine she knew they would be glad to open an account for her.

She picked up purse and gloves and started for the door. On the way down in the elevator car Cherry revised her plans. She remembered Maison Madelaine was expensive.

No, she would go to Stanley's, the big department store. Miss Lacey in the French room was always so pleasant and helpful.

Miss Lacey was equal to the emergency. She greeted Cherry effusively. Yes, she had seen the announcement of the marriage in the newspaper and thought it was romantic! An elopement of course. And what could she show the little bride today?

Cherry had set out intended to be economical. A practical woolen day dress was what she wanted. Something becoming of course but not fussy. Miss Lacey, beaming whisked away to return with a frock of glowing spring green over her arm. Feather-weight to touch. Exactly right in size. The price was $65.

"I'm afraid," mumbled Cherry, "that's a little more than I wanted to pay."

Miss Lacey's brow lifted slightly. She said quickly that of course she had less expensive models. If Mrs. Phillips was interested in picking up a really remarkable bargain there was a little blue novelty mixture—"

When Cherry departed almost an hour later not only the blue novelty mixture but a printed silk frock and half a dozen dainty garments of flesh silk were being packed into a box to be delivered to the Bismark.

The bill totaled $93.70.

She stopped at a drug store to buy perfumed soap and a jar of the face cream she always used at home. Four dollars and fifty cents on the cashier's check. Back in the hotel Cherry undressed, bathed and hurriedly made herself ready for dinner.

It was after five when she heard a quick rap at the door. Cherry rushed forward, beaming.

But it was not Dan Phillips at the other side of the door.

The Olympic Games are not a free show, after all. And the committee raising funds to defray the expenses of our own athletes to Los Angeles is finding that it has a tough task on its hands.

George Graves of Detroit, treasurer of the Olympic committee, has been sitting up nights writing to every newspaperman he knows, urging that something be done about it right away. The sum of $350,000 must be in hand by July 1 or the size of the United States team must be reduced.

AT $500 PER ATHLETE

Figuring the expenses of each athlete at slightly more than $500, it's easy to calculate the strength of the home team when Graves announces that on May 26 the total resources of the committee are not quite $36,000.

More than 400 athletes are to wear Uncle Sam's colors at Los Angeles, if the money can be raised. If the citizenry wants that many athletes in its show, the citizenry must raise the money. It's Mr. Graves, and what is more logical than that?

But, up to date, the people have not shown an overweening eagerness to kick in with the shekels. If the folks do not contribute, the Olympic committee will have to admit that they do not want to pay $350,000 for the show—at this late. And what is more logical than that?

THE RENT—OR A TENT

Of course, a number of people who might have donated a sawbuck or so two years ago find themselves now with the rent coming due July 1 and the immediate pospect of moving into a tent. That is one reason why collections have been slow.

New York City has been assessed $100,000 worth of the fund, which leaves the rest of the country $250,000 to raise. Some of the quotas for larger cities are interesting. Chicago is on the line for $50,000. Los Angeles and San Francisco are expected to give $30,000 each.

Of course, there is the possibility of a few men in the larger cities kicking in with heavy sugar if it becomes apparent that popular subscription is not going to make the grade. But then the Olympic committee is not stressing that point. Their idea is to spread the load.

ANOTHER CROSS TO BEAR

New York is expected to carry not only the brunt of the fund burden, but has to pay for the Schmeling - Sharkey beak-busting festivities this month. The fight is expected to lure $350,000 out of the customers' jeans. There may be nothing left for Uncle Sam's amateur athletes.

It is hard to ask a harassed population to make personal sacrifices to pay for our international athletic bills. But Madison Square Garden doesn't mind asking its clients to place $23 on the line for a ringside seat at a hashed-over fight that proved a dud two years ago.

So maybe the Olympic committee isn't asking too much, after all.

Anyway, Mr. Graves says he will be very glad to receive whatever pennies you might find in last summer's vest at Olympic Finance Headquarters, 233 John R. Street, Detroit.

JAPANESE ZEAL

Japan will send the largest foreign representation to the Olympic games, 200 athletes. Japan subscribed $150,000 to defray the expenses of its team, and had no trouble raising the scratch.

Japan's zeal is better understood when it is explained that the United States Olympic committee has been digging for months in the effort to raise $350,000 to finance 400 athletes.

And, by the way, apparently Japanese athletes live more cheaply than the American variety.

HE'LL BE BACK

Jack Saltzgaver, the expensive infielder farmed by the Yankees to Newark, will not be there long. Jack is a splendid infielder, but was the victim of a batting slump from which he could not rally. The lad is a fighter, and he will get it back at Newark.

THOMAS, THE ENIGMA

How much good Al Thomas, bought from the White Sox, will do the Senators is a hard one to answer. Thomas has been a chronic sufferer from a lame arm, which, by the way, habitually got better toward the end of the season whereupon Tommy would pitch superbly against the Cubs in the city series. Maybe Mr. Thomas has only been spoofing around the last few years. And maybe not.

SCRIBES HAVE LIBRARIAN.

Commissioners of the Santa Ana City league will go into executive session Monday to see what can be done about removing a deadlock for first place between Al's Auto Service and the Green Cat cafe, as a result of MacMillan Gasoline's 514 victory over the Al's at the Bowl last night.

First business to come before the commission — President Kenneth Morrison, S. B. Kaufmann and T. J. Neal—will be a protest filed by the Santa Ana Elks over a game lost to the Green Cat cafe. This protest would be relatively unimportant except that the "Cats" tied for first place.

Playoff Game Looms

If the protest is disallowed, the commission will then set a date for a playoff game between the deadlocked leaders for the first half championship.

Al's Auto Service lost undisputed possession of the title just when it seemed to have the crown as good as cinched.

Leading the third-place MacMillans into the seventh and last inning 4-2, the Servicemen suffered the pangs of despair when theiropposition filled the bases on a walk by Blanchard Beatty and singles by Harnois and Mearl Youel, with all hands scoring when Melvin Beatty blasted a double.

Beatty was quickly doubled off second after Curt Youel's line drive to Les Boyle but the damage had been wrought, for the Servicemen could do nothing with Mearl Youel's pitching in theirhalf of the diasastrous frame, English, Boyle and Ochoa going out in order.

Early Lead Wasted

Al's Service scored three times in the first inning, once in the second. Most observers figured this lead would be sufficient.

Singles by Prather and Joe Koral, fielder's choice by Conrad and "Bomo" Koral and an error by C. Youel at first base, gave the Servicemen three in the first. English's single, Boyle's infield out and Daley's error at third made the count 4-0 in the second. Thereafter the Servicemen were unable to make headway against Youel's hurling.

MacMillan Gas got one in the third on Harnois's single, a wild pitch and M. Youel's single, and another in the sixth on Curt Youel's single, stolen base and Wimbush's single. Then came the seventh—B. Beatty's pass, Harnois' and M. Youel's hits and M. Beatty's timely double.

The box score:

Eastman To Be Conceded Team Place

BERKELEY, June 24.—(UP)—Possibility that Ben Eastman, sensational Stanford runner, may not have to face the strenuous Olympic tryouts appeared likely today.

Lawson Robertson, head coach of the American Olympic team, announced that he would recommend that Eastman be automatically picked in the 400-meter dash at the final Olympic tryouts at Stanford next month.

Eastman would then have to qualify in tryouts only for the 800-meter event.

Robertson, who arrived here for the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championships July 1 and 2, is track coach at Pennsylvania.

OLYMPIC HOPES

by CLAIRE BURCKY

JOHN ANDERSON

To pay a debt to a dead pal, John F. Anderson hopes to win the 1932 Olympic games discus throw championship—and set a new world record beyond the 170-yard mark.

Anderson is the same blond giant who competed for Cornell university a few years ago. He made the 1928 Olympic team through the unselfish act of his close friend, Eric Krenz of Stanford University, who was drowned last summer. For more than three years, Krenz had dreamed of a victory in the Olympic discus throw in 1932.

The friendship had its beginning in May of 1928. Kren, then a sophomore, came east with the Stanford team to win the intercollegiate discus throw, the first of three straight triumphs ending in an intercollegiate record of 163 feet 7 3-8 inches for him in 1930. He met Anderson, and defeated him, on the field of competition. They became fast friends.

Six weeks later the final Olympic qualifying trials in Harvard stadium were drawing to a close. Krenz had made the team in the shot put. Anderson's one remaining chance to win a trip to Amsterdam was in the discus, Krenz's favorite event and the one in which he was an assured place winner, if not the ultimate victor. The western youth unselfishly laid his plans.

He watched Dr. Clarence (Bud) Houser, Olympic discus winner in 1924, get off a throw of better than 153 feet. He also saw Fred Weicker, New York A. C. star, and Jim Corson of the Olympic Club come in close behind Houser. He could beat at least one of them, but could Anderson? The big Cornell boy would get fourth place, and a trip to the Olympics, if he shouldn't place. Krenz didn't—because he deliberately made foul throws.

All the way to Amsterdam, and during pre-Olympic practice sessions on Dutch soil, Anderson felt sure Krenz would be selected by the American officials to participate in the discus championships. So did Krenz, for weren't his records, aside from that day in Harvard stadium, the best of the entire squad of platter-tossers?

Instead, they held him to the shot put. Anderson tossed the discus and placed fifth, behind Houser, Kivi of Finland, Corson, and Stenerud of Norway, with a 147-foot throw. Weicker failed to place. Krenz could have done 155 feet with Houser but he had to be satisfied with a 49-foot heave for fourth place in the shot put.

Back at Cornell this year, John Anderson is taking graduate work. Every day or so he goes to the athletic field and takes a whirl at the discus. Unofficially, he has sailed the platter 165 feet. He will be hitting well beyond 170 feet by August, predicts Jack Moakley, veteran Cornell coach and former tutor of American Olympic teams.

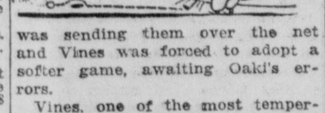

HERO GETS CAPTAINCY

Earl Labertew of Indianola, Ia., the youth who ran a mile and a half of a two-mile race after his leg had been broken, was elected 1933 track captain at Iowa State College. He is one of the middle west's leading half-milers, with a mark under 1:55 for the 880.

VINES REACHES QUARTER-FINAL AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 24.—(UP)—Ellsworth Vines, America's singles champion, was the first to enter the quarter-finals of the men's singles. He defeated Iwao Aoki of Japan, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3,6-2, in his fourth round match.

Aoki, who was backed by the huge crowd, grinned as Vines' hard forehand drives whizzed out of his reach in the first set. In the second set, however, the Japanese star returned Vines' service even harder than the Californian was sending them over the net and Vines was forced to adopt a softer game, awaiting Oaki's errors.

Vines, one of the most temperamental of present day tennis players, threw away his cap after losing the second set. The crowd cheered continually for Aoki.

Mrs. Moody Wins Easily

"Bunny" Austin, British Davis Cup star, won his fourth round match from Paul Feret of France, 6-4, 8-6, 4-6, 6-3.

Helen Wills Moody, top-heavy favorite to win the women's singles championship, advanced to the quarter-final round with a 6-3, 6-0 victory over Mrs. L. A. Godfree of Great Britain.

Fraulein H. Krahwinkel of Germany entered the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Freda James of Great Britain.

Helen Jacobs of California was the first woman to win her way into the quarter-finals with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Mrs. C. H. Jameson of Great Britain.

Sarah Palfrey Eliminated

Sarah Palfrey of Boston was America's first casualty of the day. She dropped her fifth round match to Betty Nuthall, English star. The scores were 8-6, 9-7.

Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn of the U. S. advanced to the fourth round of the men's doubles by defeating the British combination of A. Brown and R. K. Tinkler, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

Frank Shields of the United States paired with Patrick Spence of South Africa to win a second round doubles match, 6-3, 6-3. 3-6, 6-1, from Nigel Sharpe and Pat Wheatley, both of Great Britain.

Gregory Mangin and Sidney B. Wood defeated Enrique Maier of Spain and H. C. Fisher of Switzerland, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4, in their third round doubles contest.

Jacobs Says Max Not To Appeal Bout

NEW YORK, June 24.—(UP)—Max Schmeling and his manager, Joe Jacobs, have conceded the world's heavyweight championship to Jack Sharkey.

"We will make no more fuss over the matter because further controversy might hurt boxing in New York state," Jacobs said.

Jacobs said Schmeling will sail for Germany in three or four days for a vacation. He will fight in September against Larry Gains in London or against Mickey Walker, Primo Carnera or Steve Hamas in New York.

"We'll take the best offer," Jacobs concluded.

ENGLISHMAN'S AGGREGATE 145 IN OPEN GOLF

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY CLUB, FLUSHING, N. Y., June 24.—(UP)—Another par shattering 69 was recorded over the difficult Fresh Meadow golf course today as Phil Perkins, former British amateur golf champion, temporarily assumed the lead in the National Open golf tournament.

Perkins' round equalled the 69 turned in by Olin Dutra yesterday and gave Perkins an aggregate of 145 for the first two rounds. Dutra had not yet completed his second round.

Johnny Farrell, former Open champion, failed to improve upon his first round total of 80. He had an 81 today, to aggregate 161 and to be on the qualification danger line.

Wind Handicaps Players

The wind which yesterday roared across the Meadows continued unabated and a second batch of unusually large scores was imminent.

Lloyd Gullickson of Cleveland, one of yesterday's lows with a 75, scored an 82 today for an aggregate of 157.

Tom Creavy of Albany, N. Y., National P. G. A. champion, had one of the best rounds of the early finishers. He was one over par at 71, but his 83 total of yesterday gave him an aggregate of 154.

Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., also had a fine round of 72 today and a total of 151.

S. A.-TORRANCE TILT TO BE PLAYED HERE

The Santa Ana-Torrance baseball game next Tuesday, which will open the second half of the National Night league's split season, will be played at Santa Ana's Bowl instead of at Torrance, Business Manager John Wilcox of the Santa Ana club announced today. Poor patronage at home has left Torrance club in the red, and Manager "Spud" Murphy figured he could do better financially by moving the tussle here.

STARS GO TO WHITTIER TO END FIRST HALF; INGLEWOOD MAKES DEBUT HERE TOMORRON NIGHT

For no reason at all except an obligation to play out the full string, Santa Ana tours to Whittier tonight for the closing contest of the National Night league's first half season.

George Lackaye's champions, four full games to the good, naturally will be out to make a showing worthy of their station as champions, but hope to save the full force of their attack for Inglewood, which comes to the Bowl the following evening for the first Saturday night baseball game in Santa Ana's sports history.

After a rather strenuous first round, climaxed by recent exciting struggles against Olive and Anaheim, the Stars relish the opportunity of meeting a team with nothing at stake. Lackaye opines they may play even better ball for it, and predicts another Santa Ana victory which would complete a first half string of 13 victories against a single setback, the one at Olive.

Cornelius Whittier's Jinx

Joe Cornelius, always an eyesore to Whittier, will be on the range for the Stars. When the tall twirler first joined the club here two years ago, Whittier was the only outfit he couldn't beat, but after a couple of reversals Cornelius began throwing what the Poets didn't like. Now he has an unbroken run of nine straight victories over Whittier Incidentally, he has hit several home runs against the Poets that helped his own cause in close contests.

Pleased with their conduct against Anaheim after unsteady behavior in the early innings, Manager Lackaye indicated he would stick with his revised infield—Ed Daley, 1b; George Preble, 2b; "Memphis" Hill, 3b, and Leavitt Daley, ss. The outfield will be selected from Clarence Hapes, Rod Ballard, Wayne Nelson and "Rosy" Merrill, the

LEMONS FROM COUNTY BRING GOOD PRICES

FULLERTON, June 24.—Because of the rise in temperature in eastern citrus markets and because of the decrease in shipments from foreign and Florida markets, the California citrus market took an upward trend yesterday and the day before, and the 160 cars shipped from Northern Orange county were demanding a fair price on the market.

The Northern Orange County Citrus exchange marketed 142 cars the past week, according to George Crawford, manager.

The lemon market is bringing about a five dollar deal. The exchange has marketed about five cars. Oranges are not doing so well. The break on grapefruit is fair and is slowly advancing, chiefly because the Florida supplies are cleaned up, and no fruit is moving to eastern markets from Porto Rico at the present time, Crawford stated. The exchange has marketed nearly 15 cars thus far. The price now swings about the $3.50 a box mark.

The market on lemons is good because of the quality of the California fruit, the extreme warm weather and the low shipment of foreign fruit, it is said.

In addition to the Northern Orange County exchange shipping, the American Fruit Growers' house is averaging about five cars a week to the general eastern market and the Fullerton Packing house, an independent dealer, is marketing two cars of valencias a day. There is little variation in prices.

Forgotten Key Results In Quiz By Beach Police

NEWPORT BEACH, June 24.—Seeing a car drive up to a neighbor's house the second time and haul things away, the second time forcing open the back door to make entrance, was too much for one of the residents of Goldenrod avenue in Corona Del Mar, so she took the number of the car and notified the police.

Police getting in touch with the state division of motor vehicles, found that the car was registered to a resident of Orange. An interview with the Orange party revealed that he had traded the car to a Santa Ana man recently. The Santa Ana resident being contacted, stated that he had just sold the car to a Costa Mesa resident, Mr. Wills.

Mr. Wills, on being questioned, produced a deed for the Corona Del Mar property and explained that he had sent his boys over to the place for some things and that the boys had forgotten to take the key and had forced the back door with a bar which they had found in the garage.

Mission Work In Africa Outlined

BUENA PARK, June 24. — The Missionary society held an interesting meeting at the Congregational church Wednesday afternoon when conditions in Africa were described by Mrs. J. B. Robison, who is program chairman. Owing to the topography of the country, the jungles and the ununited conditions of the different tribes and the tropical climate, missionary work has been very difficult in Africa, Mrs. Robison said. The missionary work being accomplished in Liberia was discussed.

Articles on missionary work in Africa were read by Mrs. Jesse Gill, Mrs. J. W. Sanbury, Mrs. J. B. Robison, Mrs. C. W. Pulley and Mrs. I. D. Bacon. At the short business session a roll call was held.

U. S. CHAMBER ISSUES CITED BY CLAGSTONE

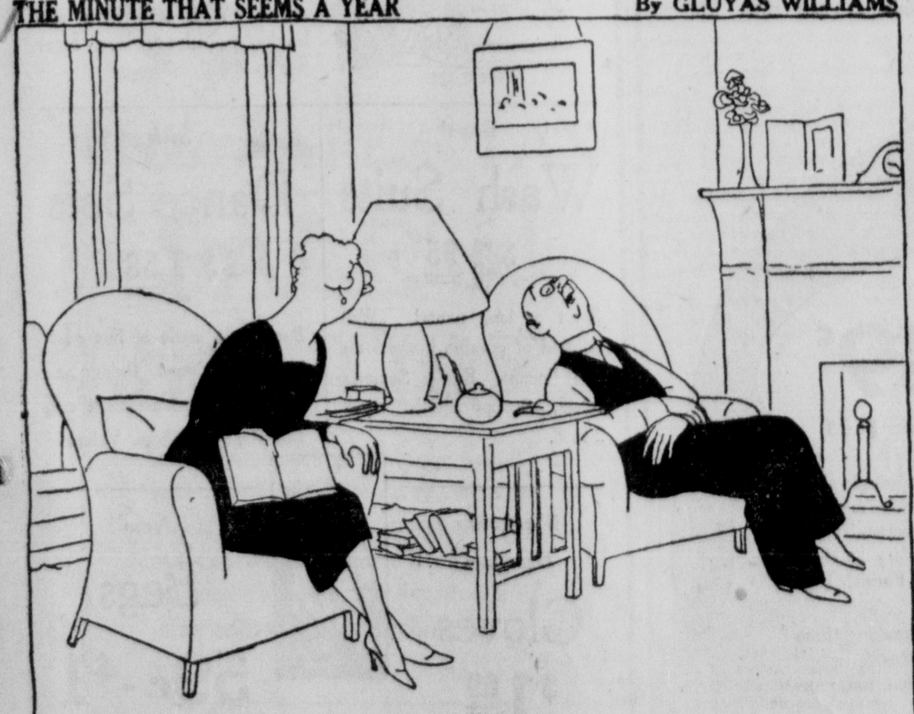

FULLERTON, June 24.—"Unless we stop the present tendency of the government toward entering into competitive business, we are headed straight for a system of state socialism," Paul Clagstone, manager of the western division of the United States Chamber of Commerce told a combined meeting of the Fullerton merchants division and directors of the chamber of commerce yesterday noon at the California hotel.

Clagstone outlined three great issues that the national chamber is particularly concerned with and suggested that if the business men of the country will co-operate, the tendencies can be rectified and the prosperity that was evident in United States previous to 1929 can be re-established.

These three problems, high lights of discussion at the national chamber meeting, are reduction of taxes, getting the government out of competition with private business and modification of the anti-trust laws to permit adjustment of production and labor, he said.

"Increase in federal, state and county taxes has averaged 500 million a year the past two years," Clagstone declared. The present depression is not so much caused by mistakes of business men as it is mistakes of government, meeting the demands of citizens themselves in extravagant improvements, and all this has tended to encourage officials to spend more."

County Will Gain $1,000,000 From New Beet Crop

WORK FOR 1000 MEN IN LOCAL SUGAR FIELD

Approximately $1,000,000 will be placed in circulation in Orange county through harvesting of the county's sugar beet crop this year, it was indicated today by G. J. Strodthoff, manager of the Holly Sugar company plants and Santa Ana and Los Alamitos.

Operation of these plants is scheduled to start July 25 and will put approximately 1000 men to work either in the plants or in the fields for a period of 85 days through which the harvest is expected to run.

Approximately 200 men will be employed at the factories and the remainder by the growers.

This year's crop was estimated by Mr. Strodthoff at 85,000 tons which is a 30 per cent increase over last year. Guaranteed prices to the grower are based on a rate of four cents per pound for sugar or eight dollars per ton for beets testing 20 per cent sugar.

The crop is reported in very good condition and to have reached a stage of maturity which it is unlikely to be damaged by any caprice of the weather. Both in quantity and quality the crop will exceed last year. Last year's crop averaged 19 per cent sugar content, but this year it will average 20 per cent according to advance tests of the maturing beets, according to Mr. Strodthoff.

That the sugar beet crop is capable of far greater expansion in Orange county and that this expansion is contingent entirely upon the sugar using public was the declaration of Mr. Strodthoff. "If housewives would specify they want domestic sugar when they do their marketing it would so increase the demand that we could put two or three more factories to work here," he said.

In addition to the output of the Holly Sugar company a considerable quantity from Orange county will also be harvested by the American Beet Sugar company and run through its plant at Oxnard which is scheduled to start operations July 23. It expects to handle 247,000 tons of beets shipped all the way from San Luis Obispo in the north to Chino in the south.

With the guaranteed price to growers of this year's crop they should realize substantial profits it was declared by sugar men today.

A MERCHANT FAMILY IS THIS

Confident of the future progress of Santa Ana, the management of Taylor's general merchandise store has gone to considerable expense to remodel and re-equip their plane of business at 405 West Fourth street. Reading from left to right this father and son partnership members are: J. W. Taylor, jr., J. W. Taylor, sr., and Kemper M. Taylor.

JR. BREAKFAST CLUB STARTS DAILY FEASTS

Sponsored by the Santa Ana Breakfast club, a Junior Breakfast Club was organized among school children of the city meeting at the Julia Lathrop school Thursday noon.

Miss Rosie Segura was elected president, Miss Ruby McIntyre, vice president, and Jack Nelson, secretary.

The junior club will meet at the Julia Lathrop school every noon except Sunday during the summer vacation, where they will be served a dinner prepared under the direction of Mrs. Edith Ritter, principal of the Fremont school. They are assembled from all over the city. In each section of the city a spot has been designated where they meet at 11 o'clock each morning. There they are picked up in automobiles furnished by various teachers in the city school system and taken to the Julia Lathrop school where for an hour they are given supervised play on the playgrounds.

At 12 o'clock a wholesome meal is served in the school cafeteria. It is concluded by the singing of patriotic songs, the Scout salute to the flag and a prayer. The children are then returned to their assembling places by the automobiles which brought them.

To operate the cafeteria of the Junior Breakfast club and supervising the feeding of these children Mrs. Ritter has given up her summer vacation and will stick on the job until school opens next September and school cafeterias are reopened. During the last winter she served a daily meal to 400 Mexican children at a cost of one cent per meal to the children.

The Junior Breakfast club is being sponsored and financed by the Senior Breakfast club from the $1829 fund raised by presentation of a benefit show. It is being assisted by the Excelsior and Raitt dairies which furnish milk free; Smart & Final and the Park Produce which supply staples at cost; Webber's Bakery which donated bread and the Sunkist Orange associations which donate oranges. Various individuals of the city are also cooperating by the donation of various supplies.

SUPERVISORS' WATER POLICY WINS C'S OF C.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce is in accord with the resolution adopted by the board of supervisors turning down participation by Orange county in the proposed $400,000 water conservation program outlined for the upper Santa Ana river basin by A. L. Sondreregger, engineer employed by the Tri-Counties Water Conservation association, according to President Ross A. Shafer in an opinion expressed to the Register today. Shafer temporized his statement by saying that, at least, he was in accord with the supervisors' action and felt that members of the water conservation committee and other members also were in accord.

Plans for checking over the expenditures of the county with the view of creating more efficiency in county expenditures and tax matters, and a report from the water committee will be presented at the next regular meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county which will be held in Costa Mesa Women's clubhouse at 6:30 p. m. next Tuesday, according to a statement made today by Ross A. Shafer, president.

The tax committee has held several meetings during the current month and have been working on a general county expenditure and tax program which will be given in the form of a report at the general meeting Tuesday. The final meeting of the committee will be held in Santa Ana early tomorrow morning. No radical recommendations will be made, although the committee will favor tax reductions, according to President Shafer.

Perhaps the most important phase of the meeting will be a round table discussion of the $400,000 water conservation program outlined for the upper Santa Ana river basin by A. L. Sonderegger, engineer employed by the Tri-Counties Water Conservation association for that purpose. The proposal was opposed by the Orange county board of supervisors and turned down on the advice of G. A. Elliott, San Frnacisco engineer, employed by the board to study the program.

Contrary to prevalent rumor, Francis Huttle, president of the Water Conservation association, and Engineer Elliott will not address the general meeting, President Shafer declared today, although it was suggested at the last meeting of the Associated Chambers water committee that both men be invited to speak at a future meeting. They may address the gathering in the future.

The board of supervisors turned down the proposal for water spreading operations in the San Bernardino valley on the grounds that they would result in decreasing the available water supply for the county.

TAYLOR STORE TO CELEBRATE IMPROVEMENTS

After 19 years of business in Santa Ana J. W. Taylor, senior member of Taylor's general merchandise store at 405 West Fourth street, today announced completion of extensive remodeling and redecoration of the store which will be celebrated with a notable remodeling sale starting Saturday.

At considerable cost the store has been equipped with new fixtures of modern display of goods, changes made in the floor and basement arrangements, and the entire interior remodeled and redecorated.

Mr. Taylor opened his first store in Santa Ana, in 1913, when the city's population was only about 8,500. It was located in a building at the rear of the First National Bank building.

In 1914 the store was moved to larger quarters in the old opera house building, since torn down, at Fourth and Bush streets, where it was operated until 1920 when Mr. Taylor sold out.

Eight years ago, after Mr. Taylor's sons, J. W. Taylor jr., and Kemper M. Taylor returned from Redlands University where they specialized in business and economics courses, the father and sons founded their present store.

Before coming to Santa Ana from Missouri Mr. Taylor owned and operated a large department store. Confident that Orange county is the garden spot of the country and that the future holds much in store for it they have launched on the expansion program which they expect to celebrate with tomorrow's big sale.

Open House For Unemployed Unit

LA HABRA, June 24.—Open house will be held by the La Habra Co-operative Workers at their commissary on North Hiatt street next Thursday.

The work of the group will be on display at this time and a box will be placed at the door of the building for donations. The doors will open at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will be open in the evening from 7 to 10 o'clock. Mrs. H. P. Sutton is in charge of the program to be given in the evening.

The building in which the commissary is housed is donated by Mrs. Flora Rhodes and Judge F. D. Halm has donated a truck, which the men are using to go to and from the fruit orchards. Hundreds of cans of fruit have been put up by the women and a large quantity is being dried.

75 SANTA ANA Y BOYS REACH CAMP OSCEOLA

OSCEOLA, June 24.—The 75 boys and men from Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. reached camp on time Tuesday noon. Cabin assignments were promptly made, and according to J. B. Wilbur, of Orange, who is in general charge of the camp for this season, the boys show the camping spirit of veteran campers, as many of them are. Before supper time the camp was in fine working order.

The plunge was initiated for the season at the afternoon swim period at 3 o'clock. The water is still pretty cool, but not too cool for campers. Several of the boys carry certificates as "Junior Life Savers," having taken instruction and passed their tests under R. R. Russick, physical director of the Santa Ana Y., and this fact decidedly increases the factor of safety.

The first campfire, held last night, showed fine spirit, and presented an interesting program, with talks and entertainment by several of the leaders, lively singing by the whole crowd, and an early issue of the "Osceola Grumbler," the daily newspaper of the camp, which was edited by Walter Kring and filled with wit, wisdom and news.

This morning, the campers enjoyed the "newcomers" parade. It is a tradition of the camp that all new campers must attend breakfast on their first morning in camp attired in pajamas. Some marvelous creations were on display, presenting startling combinations in styles and colors. The style show did not interfere with breakfast appetites. First year boys and all others were able to do full justice to "Ma" Kenline's hot cakes.

The election of camp officials will take place today.

A good many visitors are expected this week end. All of the boys are hoping that their parents and friends will be here.

It will help the cooks if advance reservations are made by those who wish to take dinner Sunday with the boys. Mail for the camp should be addressed to Camp Osceola, Seven Oaks, California.

Visitors are advised to come in by the Barton Flats road rather than by Seven Oaks. The controls operate at Camp Angelus on a schedule of 2, 5, 8 and 11 o'clock, right around the clock. Visitors who catch the 11 o'clock control coming in will be able to arrive in time for dinner. For those who have not been here before it should be stated that camp is reached by taking the Mill Creek road to Igo's where one must turn to the left, following the signs for the Clark's Grade road to Big Bear, and turning off to the right on Barton Flats road.

TO AID GROWERS IN WAR ON SCALY BARK

Two demonstration meetings have been scheduled by the Agricultural Extension Service to show the latest methods of scaly bark control, according to Harold E. Wahlberg, Farm Advisor. These meetings will be held Wednesday morning and afternoon, June 29, in the following orchards:

10:00 a. m.—Place of J. A. Knapp, Ocean avenue, Garden Grove, 1-2 mile east of town.

2:00 p. m.—Place of Anton Schulte, corner N. West street and Romneya drive, about 1-2 mile west of Anaheim Fair grounds.

Besides the demonstration of the latest methods recommended for scaly bark control, university specialists will discuss recommended methods of handling other citrus root and bark diseases, including gummosis, oak root fungus and lemon shell bark.

All growers are invited to attend these meetings. The farm advisor announces the above meetings will be the only ones held on this subject this season.

TUSTIN

TUSTIN, June 24.—Will Kittle, of Costa Mesa, spent Sunday with his aunt, Mrs. E. M. Crawford.

TO AID GIVERS TO T B CAUSE WITH ECONOMY

With economy as the watchword, a new "traveling suit" has been planned for the 1932 Christmas seals which will go into thousands of Orange county homes, it was revealed today by Mrs. Amelia Meagher, executive secretary of the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association, which sponsors the annual sale of Yuletide stickers.

Seals this year will reach purchasers in envelopes bearing the imprint of a one-cent postal permit, instead of the first class postage stamp which has been used in the past. Use of this new type envelope will reduce the cost of handling the sale materially, Mrs. Meagher said. Because of the volume of seal letters mailed, postage is a very large item. With three-cent letter rates now effective, the change has been made in keeping with the necessity for economy.

The same style envelope will be used throughout the state in seal sales this year as the result of a recent conference of county tuberculosis association secretaries, held at Los Angeles, with William Ford Higby, secretary of the state organization.

Like the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association, similar bodies in other counties are facing a time of severely curtailed income, and wondering how they will weather the next few months financially, Mrs. Meagher reported after attending the gathering at Los Angeles. Adoption of the new style envelope was an economy move designed to make budget balancing easier for next year.

Church Tots Hold Gay Frolic in Garden of Schrock Home

As the result of an invitation issued by Mrs. P. F. Schrock to the infants of First Congregational church members for yesterday afternoon, the rear lawn of the Schrock residence at 205 West Twentieth street was transformed into a mock nursery as youngsters of varying ages romped about the garden pushing great colored balls and tugging good-naturedly for the possession of sprawling rag dolls.

The baby gathering was a curious motley of coloring and of disposition, with platinum-locked youngsters and titian-haired infants presenting equally definite contrasts in temperament.

Dolls and balls and balloons received the concentrated attention of the young guests throughout the early part of the afternoon, while a single small red chair provided strong competition as one baby after another subjected it to the most intricate tests.

The tots were persuaded to halt their play momentarily when Mrs. Schrock appeared with trays of cookies and animal crackers, perched upon graham crackers, which she placed upon a bright covered table in the center of the lawn. A still more fascinating spectacle took the form of a birthday cake, specially prepared for Master Claude LeRoy Andross, son of Mrs. R. L. Andross, whose third birthday anniversary was celebrated yesterday. Cake and cookies were passed with ices, the refreshments concluding a glorious "spree."

Sharing the fun were the following infants and their parent-escorts: Mrs. R. L. Andress and son, Claude LeRoy, and daughter, Peggie; Mrs. J. L. Bascom and daughter, Nancy, Mrs. T. L. Craig and daughter, Marguerite; Mrs. Joseph Harless and daughter, Joetta; Mrs. Robert Chew and children, Anna Vaughn and Robert; Mrs. Homer Humphrey and daughter, Naomi Florence; Mrs. Jesse Smith and son, Jack; Mrs. Paul Rogers and son, Thomas Milton; Mrs. George H. Spielman and daughter, Jean Louise; Mrs. J. Earl State and children, John Riley and Gloria Frances.

Miss Katherine Hart, granddaughter of Mrs. W. H. Crose, and a visitor here from Kingman, Ariz., assisted with the afternoon's play while others aiding Mrs. Schrock with her charges were Mrs. Georgia Bradley, superintendent of the beginners' department of the church Sunday school, and Mrs. Sallie P. Powell and Miss Ada O'Brien.

Informal Evening Spent in Kuhl Home

One of the week's most enjoyable informal evenings was that spent in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kuhl, 606 Garfield street, by a group of friends who planned the affair as a surprise to their hosts. A daughter of the home, Miss Margaret Kuhl, assisted in making arrangements.

Soon after guests arrived, a lively game of cards was in session.

The event was climaxed with the serving of delicious refreshments which had been supplied by the self-invited group.

Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan and daughter, Letitia; Mr. and Mrs. Ray, Mrs. Annie Arnold, Mr. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ryan, Mrs. Nannie Meyers and Mr. and Mrs. Kuhl and Miss Margaret Kuhl.

Nathaniel Travises Made Subject of Surprise Party

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Travis of 821 North Ross street were taken entirely by surprise one afternoon recently when members of the Bible class of the First Congregational church, with which they have been affiliated, arrived at their home for an impromptu party instigated by A. H. Pendell and others of the group.

Mrs. Julian Mathews, whose husband is a nephew of the Travises, had been advised of the plan and had seen to the decorating, great bouquets of gladioluses testifying to her knowledge of the conspiracy.

The afternoon was spent most informally, Mr. Travis entertaining his guests with accounts of personal experiences enjoyed in early California during the mining days, and others of the party giving readings of various descriptions.

Even refreshments had been provided for, Mrs. Mathews and Mrs. Julia Bishop joining Mrs. Travis in serving ice cream and cake to the little group of guests.

Members of the surprise party present for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Royce, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Talcott, A. H. Pendell, William Stanley Gebb, Mesdames W. H. Crose, Julia A. Bishop and M. Wilson and Miss Ellenora Shaver, besides the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Travis, and their nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Mathews.

Church Societies

Presbyterian Picnic

First Presbyterian Aid society women took full advantage of an invitation extended by the Brotherhood of that denomination in motoring to Irvine park Tuesday for a picnic planned and executed exclusively by the men of the church.

At the park they joined a crowd of 150 and were assigned places at long tables bountifully spread with picnic fare of every description.

Equally ample provision had been made for the program following the supper, when brief talks were enjoyed between entertainment offered by Miss Georgia Walton, violinist, accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong; by LeRoy Finster, playing the steel guitar and singing cowboy ballads; and by Miss Vivian Rogers, who read two selections.

As toastmaster, George S. Smith called upon the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor, and upon three candidates for county supervisor, W. C. Jerome, John Knox and J. C. Metzgar, each of whom responded briefly.

Directing arrangements for the successful outing were Asa Hoffman, Brotherhood president; Frank D. Plavan, picnic chairman; Leon Lauderbach, John Kirby, Eugene Griset, Howard Spears, Walter D. Kring and W. C. Jerome.

KREG OFFERS FEATURES TO RADIO FANS

From 6 to 8 o'clock tonight radio KREG will offer several outstanding features as a part of its daily broadcast. The first feature event to be offered is the "dinner hour" program of classics at 6 o'clock.

The program tonight will range from the light to heavier classics and included several requests. This program will be by electrical recording and will present John McCormack in his two most popular numbers, "Mother Machree," and "I Hear You Calling Me." The International orchestra is second on the program and will play "Eva" and "Carmen Sylva."

Under direction of Rudolph Ganz the St. Louis Symphony orchestra will play the highly descriptive overture, "Fingal's Cave," by Mendelssohn, and two musical treats will close the presentation as the Victor Salon group and the Victor Concert orchestra offer "Song of the Bayou," and "Two American Sketches," second and first prize winners, respectively, in national competition.

Charlotte Morgan, the "Personality Gal" of radio will present two programs tonight. Unable to present her program last night she will entertain from KREG's main studio tonight at 7 o'clock and sing again during the program to be broadcast from 10 to 11 by direct wire from the Valencia Ballroom. She will sing with Norm Moran and His New Valencia morgan and His New Valencia program.

At 8 o'clock another playlet of the series written by Bryan Burnett and Myrl Carver will be presented. Tonight's offering will be "The Letter" and is a true and intensely interesting story of the United States Army Military Intelligence department. It will tell of the method used to prevent sinking of certain American ships during the war and the system used to get the information of the proposed destruction.

"The Apple Doesn't Fall Far From the Tree"

This business of being a parent certainly does put one on the spot for the rest of life. A wise old man, in discussing the so-called shortcomings of the young generation made a remark that, to me, seemed to hit the nail on the head.

He said: "The apple doesn't fall very far from the tree." That's true, too. Children come into the world with minds as plastic as soft putty, and like soft putty these minds take any impression that comes their way strong enough.

When you see boys and girls who have gentle manners, deference towards their elders, a reasonable respect for the truth and the belongings of others, you can bank on it that they have seen these things in their parents, or in some adult who holds high place in their secret thoughts. The reverse also can be true. And how tragic that is, when sticking with the job through the formative years could have made the coming adult generation a splendid one.

My theory is that we owe this attitude towards children, any child that comes our way, not just for our own, for our right to live and enjoy life: If we can't at least keep the family running along on the same moral level we, ourselves, grew up to, we have failed and failed terribly.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Peas With Lettuce

1 quart shelled peas
2 small heads lettuce
1 teaspoon sugar
Salt and pepper
¼ cup melted butter.

Shred the two heads of lettuce into the kettle, add 1-4 cup hot water and set over the fire. As soon as the kettle bubbles put the peas over the lettuce and cook at a rapid gait until the peas are tender—about 10 minutes. Watch the fire and decrease the flame as the water evaporates.

Of course you know that peas cooked in an open vessel retain their color better than peas cooked in a covered kettle. There is another good reason for cooking them without a cover: Evaporation takes place and all of the valuable mineral elements are left for you, not thrown down the drain pipe.

Season the peas and lettuce to taste before sending to the table.

Creamed Cucumbers

1 large cucumber, peeled and cut in large dice
1 1-2 cups rich cream sauce
Salt and pepper
Dash of nutmeg.

Cook the cucumbers in slightly salted water (boiling) for 10 minutes. Drain and dress with the cream sauce, first shaking the nutmeg can over the dish about three times.

If cucumbers as a cooked vegetable are unknown to you, do please let me present them formally. They are very nice.

* * *

Neither of the two vegetables have many calories to worry about. What there are belong to the dressings. I think by this time you ought to be able to add up the total yourself.

Can you make ice cream in your mechanical refrigerator that will cut in slices and be velvety smooth? I can and I'd love to tell you how easy it can be done. I will, if you'll send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope in which to mail you a copy of my NEW FROZEN DESSERTS.

* * *

Saturday we'll have a simple but very swanky dessert called Hamburg Cream.

W. R. C.

Attending as special guests, members of the Costa Mesa W. R. C. took part in the meeting of Santa Ana W. R. C. held Wednesday afternoon in the Knights of Pythias hall. This was preceded by a benefit dinner served at noon.

Table decorations had been made by Mrs. Elizabeth Birkhead and her dining-room committee, Mesdames Hattie Cozad, Belle McConnal, Meta Caldwell, Mary Crissman, Julia Cozad and Geraldine Beal. Those on the dinner committee were Mesdames Letta Morgan, Teresa Ryan, Gertrude Record, Mary Marston, Leola Dietrich and Fanny Cunningham.

The afternoon session was in charge of the president, Mrs. Estelle Gray. There were 14 officers, 24 members and six visitors present. Mrs. Etta Tead of Costa Mesa corps was introduced.

It was reported that 75 calls had been made; 22 bouquets distributed and $15 expended for child welfare. The charter was draped for the 38th president of the national W. R. C., Mrs. Inez Bender, also for Mrs. Ella Van Home, past department president.

Mrs. Kate Sutton invited the members to a tea to be held Thursday, June 30 at 2 o'clock in her home, 903 North Olive street. Each one attending is to bring food to help the victory fund.

STAR OF "THE DARK HORSE"

NEWS AND NOTES MICKEY MOUSE CLUB for BOYS AND GIRLS

With the "big day" not far away, Mickey Mouse club members are practicing diligently for their big Go-Kum Bat contest, now in its preliminary stages.

Trials will be continued at the Fox West Coast tomorrow after the club sees "Phantoms of the Desert," a thrilling all-star picture, a Mickey Mouse cartoon and on Our Gang comedy.

POLITICAL FILM AND FIVE ACTS AT BROADWAY

The first of the presidential year political films to reach the local screen, "The Dark Horse," which begins a two-day run at the Fox Broadway theater today, also has the distinction of being one of the finest comedy dramas since the advent of talking pictures.

Five acts of vaudeville accompany the comedy here.

Chief Eagle Feather and company, American Indian tap dancers, headline the bill. Other numbers include Fronvi and Nelita company in a novelty, "Romantic California;" Rena and Rathburn, comedy dancers; Warren and Inman, in a surprise act, and Fox and Ferris, pretty and talented.

As a contribution to the excitement of the election period, "The Dark Horse" carries a certain satirical message, but it is really fast and frolicsome entertainment that will give Ma and Pa and the kids who are casting their first vote a splendid evening of laughs.

Through a comedy of errors a dumbell gets the nomination for governor. It then becomes a real job to elect him and, for this purpose, a high powered promoter (Warren William) is rescued from the alimony prison.

With the entrance on the scene of William the story is said to move rapidly, with comedy and melodrama mixed in liberal portions.

"HIGH SPEED" NEW PICTURE AT STATE

Do Buck Jones' fans insist on seeing him as a colorful Western hero, or will they enjoy the opportunity of watching Buck prove that he is just as entertaining in other types of pictures?

The answer will be revealed today at Walker's State theater, where the star's new action drama, "High Speed" is the feature attraction. Buck has a role entirely new to him, as a breezy young racing driver who strives hard to win a national racing contest and the heart of beautiful Loretta Sayers.

Jones replaces "Silver," his fleet-footed horse, with a speedy racing car. His familiar chaps are laid aside in favor of the coveralls of a speed driver. "High Speed" retains only the thrills and action of Buck's popular Western dramas.

American tourists spend about $300,000,000 a year in Europe, France taking the biggest share.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

Announcement has been made from the M. A. Newmark Company, Southern California sponsors of the Independent Grocers Alliance of America, generally known as the I. G. A., that already over 500 independent grocers have made application for membership in this organization. The entrance of I. G. A. in this section, after successfully operating in the United States with over 12,000 members, will greatly benefit thousands of women who are customers of independent grocers. The I. G. A. will give its members the opportunity of mass buying, mass advertising and mass merchandising. This advantage will naturally be passed on to the buyer.

The I. G. A. has an actual buying power of over six hundred million dollars per year and is the largest organization of this type in the world. Buying on this tremendous scale gives the member all the advantages of quantity buying and enables him to still retain the ownership and operation of his own business.

Today newspaper advertising is an important factor in merchandising. The small grocer has been unable to compete with the large display advertisements of chain stores and large markets. Through the I. G. A., its members collectively, will use liberal display space in local newspapers. The I. G. A. advertising now appears in over 300 newspapers.

To assist the grocer in more effective and modern display of merchandise, as well as more efficient store management, the I. G. A. store engineers and merchandising experts, supervise in the organization, construction and operation of each store. The stores are rearranged and painted blue and ivory to conform with the I. G. A. plan of operation. However, each member will continue to use his own name and operate his own store just as in the past.

Harold Flatau of the M. A. Newmark Company and Mr. Jacques Phelps of the I. G. A., together with other executive of both organizations, have been active in the organizing of this division in Southern California.

The need for some time of an organization of this type has made it possible to already secure over 500 members in record time. The first stores will be in operation this week. Additional stores will be changed to conform with the I. G. A. plan at the rate of over 25 a week. In not less than 60 days, I. G. A. stores will be operating in practically every important city, town and central business location in Southern California.

SUFFERED FOR FORTY YEARS

Then One Lucky Day She Used Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is great news for sufferers from constipation. Read Mrs. Kendig's voluntary letter:

"For about forty years I had been praying for a lasting remedy for constipation and its attending evils. To make it short, I ate nothing but ALL-BRAN and a little broth. Since that time (about ten years ago) I have not taken any medicine. Have been well and entirely free from constipation."—Mrs. I. H. Kendig, R. F. D. No. 2, Lancaster, Penna.

Constipation is caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN furnishes both. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the wastes.

Isn't it much pleasanter to enjoy ALL-BRAN than to risk taking pills and drugs—so often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. If you have intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. It is not habit-forming. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

The little cardboard house burned fast. "I wonder how long this will last," said Coppy. "Maybe we should help the dogs put out the blaze.

"I'd like to squirt their little hose. I'd save that strange house, goodness knows! But I guess they should do it. They've been trained for days and days."

"You're right," said Scouty. "Let them do the firemen's work, instead of you. The house will crumble shortly. It is getting weak right now.

"You know that cardboard isn't strong. That's why it's burning right along. The trainer likes his dogs' work, so he shouldn't start a row."

The dogs kept water shooting out of all the hoses. Without doubt, they seemed almost like humans. Soon the raging fire was low.

Then, with an ax, one little hound spread final embers all around. The fire was under fine control and it made quite a show.

Just then a little circus miss said to the band of Tinies, "This is your chance to get lots of laughs. Come on, lads, follow me.

"We have trained monkeys with this show. You'll be surprised at what they know. They act upon the trapeze and are clever as can be."

* * *

"Oh, that sounds great," one Tiny said. "We'll follow you. Just go ahead." And, in about a minute all the lads were laughing loud.

The way the monkeys swung through air at times gave Duncy quite a scare. "Those tricks are wonderful," said he. "No wonder they feel proud."

And then one monkey swung up high. Said Scouty, "Look! He's going to try to catch the other by his feet. I hope he doesn't miss." The Tinies watched the stunt in awe. Complete success was what they saw. Wee Windy shouted, "That was great! I sure like things like this."

brilliant Ballard being the only sure starter. Tom Denney, the new outfielder recently signed by Business Manager John Wilcox, is not eligible until next Tuesday when Santa Ana opens the second half at the Bowl against Torrance.

Johnson Due For Poets

Since "String" McDonald has had little or no success against Santa Ana in so many games, Whittier probably will send the veteran Lloyd Johnson to the box. Johnson was recently drafted from National Night league retirement to bolster the slipping Poets. He is a veteran, a crafty pitcher, and pretty hard to beat when his control is such that he can keep his fast ball around the knees. Usually, however, he has been wild and has had to slow up to get 'em in there. And then it has been too bad.

The Stars are going to try to put the quietus on "Red" Moon, Whittier shortstop, who is leading the league in hitting. Batting left-handed this season, Moon has been beating out many bunts and infield balls. If Moon is stopped and he can add a couple of bingles to his already substantial record, Rod Ballard of Santa Ana may finish the first half as the National league's leading hitter. At present Ballard is batting .449, Al Kohler of Anaheim .472 and Moon .490.

Westminster Plays Olive

Most of the league's fireworks will be touched off at Westminster where the Aviators take on the troublesome Olive Packers. Westminster shaded Olive 2-1 in 10 innings during the first quarter. Two of the best chuckers in the game, Earl Morrill and Rudy Heman, hook up in this one.

Huntington Beach goes to Anaheim, Torrance to Long Beach.

day placed him five strokes back of Olin Dutra of California, described the giant Westerner as the most dangerous man in the tournament.

Two Pay $15 For Going On Sprees

Daniel Valle, 37, of 226 East Pine street, was fined $15 by Judge J. G. Mitchell in the police court this morning on a charge of intoxication. He was arrested at the corner of Logan and Fruit streets late last night by Officers McWilliams and Stewart when they saw him stretched out in the street.

Paul Obiedo, who was arrested on a drunk charge, was also fined $15 by Judge Mitchell when he appeared to answer to the charge yesterday afternoon.

GEORGE McADOO REARRESTED ON ROBBERY COUNT

George McAdoo, former night watchman at the Smart and Final warehouse who was at first charged with participation in the $2000 cigarette burglary on the night of May 13, had a brief vacation from the county jail after the case against him had been dismissed by Judge Kenneth E. Morrison in the justice court for lack of sufficient evidence.

McAdoo was in the toils of the law again today following his arrest in Wilmington by Detective Sergeant Wolford, Assistant Chief Fink and Officer McWilliams late yesterday when Marion Eckroat, alleged member of the trio who robbed the warehouse, confessed to the entire plot, according to officers who investigated the matter.

Edward McAdoo, his brother, has steadfastly maintained the innocence of George, but the confession by Eckroat indicates that it was an "inside job" which had been framed with the assistance of George. The cropping up of this new evidence led to George's second arrest after he had been released two days ago.

According to the confession given police, Eckroat stated that George had let him and Edward McAdoo into the warehouse after they had ridden there concealed in the rear end of George's car. Eckroat's confession apparently was caused by pique because Edward had attempted to blame him as the instigator of the hold-up and robbery.

Police stated today that George had received some of the proceeds from the sale of the stolen cigarettes.

Edward McAdoo had previously confessed to his part in the burglary, according to police, but had held that George had no part in the robbery.

Both Edward and Eckroat were held to answer to the superior court on robbery charges by Judge Morrison in the justice court.

George McAdoo now will definitely face a similar charge, police officers stated today. He still declares he had no part in the robbery and says that Eckroat involved him "because he was sore because he got out of it," police said.

THEFT OF 500 LBS. AVOCADOS JAILS 3

Arrested yesterday morning by Steve Duhart and Fred Swazey of the Orange County Fruit patrol, James Nelson, 28, Anaheim; Jack Ponder, 45, and Jack Young, 55, both of Encinitas, were taken into justice court at Tustin yesterday and pleaded guilty to the theft of 500 pounds of avocados. The fruit was stolen from the San Joaquin Fruit and Investment company.

Nelson who is a tree-budder and was the alleged leader of the gang was sentenced to six months in the county jail while Ponder and Young were given 60 days each.

According to Swazey and Duhart, who made the arrest, Nelson has been under suspicion as a fruit thief for some time and on one occasion escaped from the officers using a high powered automobile. Yesterday morning the men were operating in the automobile owned by Ponder.

When first taken into custody Nelson denied the theft and declared he had purchased the fruit from the operator of a truck on the highway. Ponder and Young admitted their guilt. Nelson entered a plea of not guilty which he changed to guilty after his companions had received their sentences.

PUTS OFF SENTENCE OF MRS. OTSTOT

Superior Judge H. G. Ames this morning postponed until next Friday afternoon pronouncement of judgment on Mrs. Zermula Otstot, wife of a San Juan Capistrano druggist, found guilty recently on a charge of manslaughter. The delay was granted when Z. B. West, attorney for Mrs. Otstot notified the court of his intention to move for a new trial. Argument on the motion is also set for next Friday at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Otstot was convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Juanita Lopez, widowed mother of four children, whom she struck with her automobile last April. At the time of the accident Mrs. Lopez was walking beside the highway pushing a baby buggy in which one of her children was riding.

Dr. Paul Essling, San Juan Capistrano druggist testified that when he examined Mrs. Otstot, shortly after the accident he detected the odor of liquor on her breath. The woman, however, according to his testimony, passed all sobriety tests.

WALKER CHOICE IN THIRD RISKO MATCH

CLEVELAND, June 24.—(UP)—Mickey Walker was a heavy favorite today to win his third victory over Johnny Risko when the two veterans meet here tonight in a scheduled 12-round bout.

Risko is seeking to wipe out the defeat at Miami last year which he and his manager, Danny Dunn, have asserted was an unfair decision. He will enter the ring approximately 25 pounds heavier than Walker.

GEORGE LOTT LOSES TO 16-YEAR-OLR BOY

CHICAGO, June 24. — (UP)— Frank Parker's victory over George Lott, Chicago, seeded No. 1, made him the leading contender today for the Western tennis championship. The 16-year-old Milwaukee schoolboy upset Lott yesterday in the quarter-finals, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Parker will meet Wilbur Coen jr., Kansas City, in the semi-finals. Coen yesterday defeated Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., 5-7, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 24.—(UP)—Fear that congress would pass a relief bill requiring a huge government loan, together with banking difficulties in Chicago, offset the favorable effects of a cut in the New York reserve rediscount rate and brought the stock market down 1 to 4 points today.

A long list of leading stocks broke into new low ground for the bear 23½, off 1⅝; Steel Preferred, 46, off market, including Steel Common at 3⅝; Allied Chemical 45⅜, off 2¾; American Can 30⅝, off 2¼; American Telephone 77⅛, off 2¾; Atchison 22⅛, off 3⅛; Continental Can 18⅝, off 1½, International Harvester, 12½, off ½.

Auburn Automobile crashed nearly 10 points on selling that was said to be coming from Chicago where four banks closed today following suspension of 31 others in the last month. The Chicago banking situation was reflected in an increase or $38,000,000 in money in circulation in the past week, indicating increased hoarding.

PROUD OF DRUM CORPS

Santa Ana citizens have every reason to be proud of the accomplishments and standing of the drum and bugle corps, representing Santa Ana Post No. 131, the American Legion, and the part this organization is playing in the development of Santa Ana.

By dint of hard work, including the giving over of two nights a week to practice and drills for the past year, and the capable instruction of Eddie Couron, drum major of national reputation, the members of this drum corps have attained a degree of perfection pleasing not only to the Legion which they represent, but to the community at large, which to a great extent is judged on the merit of its organizations.

A high compliment was paid to OUR drum corps when it was selected, from all those in Southern California, as the official national drum corps of the Forty-Second (Rainbow) Division, and as such occupies a place of honor at every Rainbow program, including the national convention in Los Angeles next month.

So outstanding has the organization become that it goes to the state Legion convention in Oakland, and the national convention in Portland, Oregon, this summer with high hopes of winning the state and national championships in competition with other crack corps of the United States, and in this hope every loyal Santa Ana will join.

Any organization which carries the name Santa Ana to the favorable attention of the outside world, as the Legion drum corps has already done before 250,000 people in recent months, and as it proposes to do this summer, deserves and merits the support of Santa Ana people, who are interested in the welfare and advancement in the community.

So it gives us great pleasure to commend the American Legion drum corps as a representative Santa Ana organization and as an asset to the city, and this leads us to express the hope that tickets for the Drum Corps party at the Santa Ana Bowl tonight may be purchased freely and generously.

We hope the Bowl is filled to capacity, and that sufficient revenue may accrue, over and above the cost of staging the exhibition event, to enable the drum corps to carry on to greater achievements which will reflect glory and credit to our beloved community.

ISN'T IT "GRAND"

Governor Rolph still goes after the civil service rules. He doesn't like the "unfair" tests. The intellectual requirements do not appeal to the Governor for some reason or other. What he is strong on is "humaneness" and "common sense." The other day, when he was best man at a wedding, where the groom had agreed beforehand to marry any one of seven girls whom he had never seen, who might be declared by the crowd the most popular, the governor was exercising this "humaneness" and "common sense." There is nothing like having a Governor who is modern in his ideas. The Governor says he is going to put in men to administer the civil service rules who have a heart. But we have noticed that the heart of these fellows palpitates only when considering candidates who must be rewarded for working for Rolph.

It is interesting to note how the closer the Democrats get together in person, the further they are apart in spirit. We would like to have a picture of McAdoo and Smith shaking hands on their conspiracy to kill off Roosevelt.

A GOOD GESTURE

While it isn't very probable that President Hoover's proposition for cutting armament one-third will be accepted by the conferees in the Disarmament conference, it was a mighty good gesture. It gave them something to talk about, and the rank and file of the people in the respective countries are for it anyhow. They would have responded to a two-thirds cut, or a three-thirds cut. The Russians proposed complete disarmament, and they said they weren't "sincere." We wonder if they had proposed a one-third cut, if they would have been one-third "sincere." Maybe one of these days we will actually reach the point where we will make the same proposition Russia did, sincerity or no sincerity.

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION AND THE LOANS OF THE RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION

As may be generally known, the loans made to railroads by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have to be passed upon by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The members of the Commission have taken this responsibility in the matter very seriously. This Commission is one of the numerous Goverment Commissions which has been non-political to a commendable degree. Powerful influences have not affected the searching scrutiny of the commission. It has acted most commendably in the public interest.

In passing upon the loans of the Reconstruction Finance Commission it has manifested the most careful interest. It did come under pressure in the case of the loan to the Missouri Pacific Railroad to pay a note to the Morgan concern, and it "reluctantly" gave its consent, with Commissioner Eastman making a vigorous and positive protest against it. But in the case of the loan to the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, it has made a recommendation of the loan only on condition that the railroad reduce its fixed charges, and render a complete report of its capitalization and expenditures by July 1.

This demand has raised a hue and cry from the great financial interest; but we believe that the public opinion will endorse the stand of the Commission. A Government which is so adverse to giving aid to the masses of the unemployed who are in direst need should scrutinize with the greatest care the loan of public moneys granted to great corporations and banks. It is the money of the people, and there ought to be a reasonable certainty that money so loaned shall be in the interest of the public welfare. At best it is a speculation, for in many quarters there is a grave doubt as to whether these loans can ever be repaid. In which case, of course, it is equivalent to a dole, to which the present administration has been so much opposed.

Well, some kind of a relief bill for the country is going to pass both the House and Senate. Mr. Garner's bill passed the House, providing $2,300,000,000. Senator Wagner's bill has passed the Senate. It now goes to a conference committee. Under Senator Wegner's bill $300,000,000 is available for the states for relief. President Hoover threatens to veto the bill. We doubt if the President has really come to such a decision.

JUST A MATTER OF CALCIUM

They have now discovered that the onset of old age is due to a deficiency in calcium in the body. Well, they are finding out the causes of all of our bodily difficulties, and we have always heard it said that when the causes of trouble are found, they can be removed. If by proper dieting old age can be prevented, and perpetual life given, we would like to know why we should work for posterity. Maybe the time will be reached when scientists will be able to return a man to or bring him back from childhood at will. Most men get into their childhood days twice, but not by this process.

A Suit That May Lead a Long Way

The Fresno Tribune

Lee, Higginson and Company, who floated the bonds of Kreuger and Toll in America, are named defendants in a suit filed in New York by investors, who demand a return of their money because of alleged fraud.

They claim that statements made with respect to the worth and security of the Kreuger issues in the circulars issued by the banking house were misleading where they were not false.

An eastern correspondent writes of the case:

"It is a trial horse. If it succeeds, there will be a flood of others.

"All houses of issue and especially banks, with security affiliates, are keenly interested. If the plaintiffs are upheld, it will set a precedent that will cause them a lot of trouble."

It certainly will.

But no ocean or tears of sympathy will be shed for those who find themselves in difficulty on this score.

Too many people were stung, not only by Kreuger bonds but by a host of others equally lauded, but equally worthless. And many if not most of them with recommendations equally respectable.

For it was not the out-and-out swindles, but those occupying the seats of the mighty in the financial world who took the public for its worst rides in the current debacle.

Protection For Snails

New York Times

For many American visitors to France one of the treats is their first taste of snails. Not that they anticipate, or realize, great enjoyment from a dish of escargots, but it is one of the things to be "done." Hence there may be consternation in America as well as in France at the threatened extinction of snails. Domestic breeds are said to be deteriorating from long in-breeding, and the choicest product of the Burgundy districts are dwindling because there is no "close season" for them.

Efforts to protect snails are unavailing, because they cannot be classified to official satisfaction as game, fish or domestic animals. A legal specialist asserts that anything which is merely "pulled off a wall with your fingers" cannot be game. An attorney suggested that the snail might be protected as coming under the category of "horned beasts." But it is the "wild" snails of Burgundy for which French gourmets wish to see sanctuaries provided.

One councilor, armed with a dictionary, claimed that the snail is really a sort of oyster, and as such entitled to come under regulations for sea food. Under any name the escargot would be highly prized by the French, and it may safely be left to French diplomacy to give him a title that will carry protection with it.

More Truth Than Poetry

BAD ADVICE

The proverb makers always praise
The active ant's industrious ways;
She has, we're told,
A heart of gold,
She wastes no time in shirking.
Twelve hours a day she gathers food
To feed her multiplying brood;
No thought of rest
Disturbs her breast—
The creature's always working.

The spider never takes time out
To learn what life is all about.
Should he forget
To mend his net
He'd have no flies to munch on.
He never can have any fun
Because his job is never done.
To go astray
A single day
Would mean the loss of luncheon.

It would be much a better plan
To bid these creatures copy man;
When labors irk
He knocks off work
And takes a good vacation.
There can't be any fun in life
One has to spend in dreary strife.
We need while here
Upon this sphere
A lot of recreation.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

It was Nora's day off yestidday and we was eating supper and ma was telling pop what a lot of trouble she had cooking it, and pop said. The laborer is werthy of his higher and the industrious housewife is werthy of her tawking picture.

O Willyum, do you mean you'll take me to the movies tonite, that's grand, ma said. Just as it happens, Lovey Darling's new picture is at the Narcississ tonite, she said, and pop said, I'll take you just a same.

Lovey Darling being the least thing he likes in the movies, and ma said, "Well if you'll help me clear away these dishes and so forth we'll be reddy in no time.

There's no time like the reddy present, pop said. And after supper he went out in the kitchin, saying, Well, what shall I do ferst?

These alluminum pots awt to be shined up a little, there're a diskrace, ma said, and pop said, I'll start with this little one and werk up, what do I use, my coat sleeve?

Don't be silly, rub it with this block of wire wool, ma said, wich pop started to do, saying, Such a sistem, the man that invented illuminum pots awt to be compelled to shine them the rest of his life.

Of course they're a nuisance, but as long as we have them they mite as well be kept brite, ma said, and pop said, O yes, as long as you have a pane in the neck you mite as well continue to let a draft blow on it.

I don't see any similarity whatever, I must say, ma said, and pop said, As long as you have a sore thumb you mite as well keep on soaking it with a hammer.

Now you're getting so ridiculiss you're abserd, ma said, and pop said, I'm through with this one, how does it look?

About the same, I'll do the others, ma said.

Wich she did, being 4 more of them and ony taking her about 5 minnits on account of being such a fast werker.

In the Long Ago

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gustlin, Mrs. Frank W. The state water commission asked Orange county to contribute $1000 to the fund to be used for gathering data on the run-off of water from the mountains that shed into the Santa Ana river. Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

WAR POWERS IN PEACE TIME

We are living through an historic hour in which we shall discover whether democracy can act in an emergency.

There are, I think few Americans who would not cling with a desperate devotion to democracy as, all in all, the most satisfactory form of government for normal times.

In normal times the assets of democrary far outweigh, in the minds of most of us, its liabilities.

But a phase of emergency puts to democracy a problem it is never called upon to face in normal times.

In a phase of emergency it is imperative that government be able to act with unity of purpose and with swiftness.

Broadly speaking, there are two ways in which our democracy can achieve unity of purpose and promptness of action in an emergency.

(1) Democracy can declare the sort of moratorium on partisan politics at which I hinted yesterday, and which I want to develop a little further tomorrow by reviving a suggestion I made in these articles a good many months ago.

(2) Democracy can lodge extraordinary powers in the hands of its chief executive.

The other day, Owen D. Young, stealing a few hours from his arduous work on the commission undertaking to effect a unified restorative policy through all federal reserve districts, spoke at Notre Dame university on the economic emergency confronting the nation.

In that address, Mr. Young wisely and, it may be, significantly suggested that American democracy may have to devise ways and means of empowering the president of the United States to function unfettered by the elaborate system of checks and balances, so important in normal times, but so suicidal in a phase of emergency.

If any such move were made, the land would, of course, ring with cries of dictatorship.

Intelligently safeguarded, however, such a move, if necessary, would no more mean that American democracy was turning to dictatorship than that the intelligent concentration of power for the duration of a war means the permanent abdication of democracy.

Let us remember that it is important beyond all else to win this economic war on depression.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

MINE"

There were four other people in the family, Dad, and the three almost grown-up children but Ma never seemed to realize their share in the home concerns. She always said, My house, My garden, My children, My car, My plans. Frequently she complained about the lack of interest her children showed in the house and garden. "I don't understand it. They have a lovely home but they don't appreciate it. They never take any interest in anything I plan or do. Seems funny to me but that's what this generation is I suppose."

This generation is very much like other generations. They will take an interest in whatever touches their lives and they will turn a very definite back on what does not. You can't get up warmth about building a stone well about your neighbor's garden. If he wants to build one he has your best wishes but you aren't going to lug any stones for it nor bend your back in an effort to rear the wall. It is his concern, not yours. The children feel that way about things that belong exclusively to other people even when those people are their parents. Why not? That is what ownership means.

When things are shared with the children, when they are allowed to put the creative powers to work upon them, they assume responsibility for them. The thing they work out becomes their own. That is what makes possessive parents cling to their possessions and shut the children out. In the last analysis it will be found that they don't want the children to claim things, to use things as their own.

To some extent they are right but beyond that they make a mistake. Unless we begin training children to share home and its concerns and duties from the start we are sure to have trouble at the end. Babies who want nothing grow into men and women who want everything. The safest most satisfactory way of developing co-operation in children is sharing home from the start. That means sharing everything from work to repose. It means teaching the children to help with everything that goes on from washing their hands to buying real estate by a steady gradual transference of responsibility. Family unity not only strengthens the family but it develops the individual members. Acquiring and holding on to things doesn't bring one much satisfaction. After acquisition must come use and with use service to oneself and others. That indicates sharing home and all home means. As soon as the children can handle a spoon, a dust rag, a sweeper, a bank account or a job, they must be helped to see their way to accomplishment.

Every mother dreams of a lovely home where everything shall look like the pictures in the magazines and then the children come along and mess things up. The dream vanishes. If a mother is wise she will waste no laments on that dream but set to work to realize another and a far richer one that takes in the children. She will make home Ours instead of Mine.

If father will try to share his responsibilities, if he will share the money that there is, if he will sit in council and have budget partnership things will be easier for the family and the children will furnish surprising strength where he suspected only weakness and dependence. Home and its concerns are to be regarded as Ours if home is to mean anything to its members.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY of

CONSCRIPTION TREATY

On June 24, 1918, the Senate ratified a treaty with Great Britain which provided for reciprocal conscription of British and American citizens.

German troops east of St. Die and southeast of Luneville raided American trenches and succeeded in capturing several prisoners. American troops, however, made up for this loss by finishing the clearing of Belleau Wood.

Fighting on the Italian front still consisted of Austro-Hungarian forces retreating from the intense assault of combined Italian and British troops. Vienna announced evacuation of Montello and the right bank of the Piave. About 40,000 prisoners were reported captured.
